CONSTANS IS ANGRY

NOW THAT HE IS OUT OF POWER GREAT THINGS MAY OCCUR.

The Exclusion of the Ex-Minister of the Interior Causes His Appearance to Foretell Trouble—Many Are Pleased at His Downfall.

PARIS, Feb. 29.—Now that M. Constans is out of power it is reported that President Carnot will pardon Henri Rochefort and Count Dillon. The Figaro credits M. Constans with saying: "They took me as condottiere to fight a battle they had not the courage to begin. Now that I have won it I am expelled. I shall show them that I can and will resent it."

M. Cavaignac, minister of marineist, he son of the general who contested the presidency against Louis Napoleon and was defeated and banished. The new minister, when a school boy of 17, remembering this, once refused to receive a prize awarded him from the hands of the late prince imperial.

M. Cavaignac, who has accepted the portfolio of marine in the new cabinet, and M. Ricard, the new minister of justice and public worship, never held office before The former is a clever engineer—a favorite of President Carnot, and is regarded in some quarters as a likely successor to Senator Faillieres. M. Ricard is talanted but reticent. He is known in the chamber of deputies as "La Belle Fatima," on account of his regular features and handsome white hair.

The exclusion from the cabinet of M. Constans, the minister of the interior in the preceding cabinet, is the dominant feature in the situation. His unscrupulous energy had aroused the mistrust of MM. de Freycinet and Riboi and the hatred of the radicals, who dreaded his influence at the next elections. The conservatives also are pleased at his fall; yet he has a large and powerful following, likely to prove troublesome to a new ministry. Diatribes indulged in by newspaper organs he is able to influence against the intrigues which excluded him indicate that he will not accept his defeat quietly.

Senator Maguier, who was summoned to the Elysee palace during the crisis, asserts that President Carnot threatened to resign if M. Loubet, the premier of the new cabinet, declined to form a ministry. The Matin refers to M. Loubet as President Carnot's "Tirard the Second."

To Amend the Pension Laws.

WASHINGTON, February 29.—In the senate to-day Mr. Vilas introduced a bill to amend the pension laws. Referred to the committee on pensions. It proposes to have the pension of invalid pensioners who deserted their families paid to their wives, if any, or to the guardians of the children; also. that pensions payable to persons in foreign countries may be paid according to the provisions of existing laws, provided that in case the increase inv. lid pensioners have no guardian, but having a wife or children dependent upon the pension may be paid to the wife and that the pensions of men imprisoned for crime shall be paid to the wives or the guardians of their children.

The Evangelical Conference.

NORRISTOWN, Pa.. February 29.—The conference of the Evangelical church began its fourth days session at 9 o'clock this morning, Bishop Bowman presiding. The committee on finance reported that the total in the treasury was $722.96 and the apportionment made to claimants as follows. Father Holman $230. Father Gable $170, Father Harper $175, Father Gingerich $75, Sister Adams $75. The Church Building society was reccommended to give a loan o $200 to Matamoras church. he afternoon session was devoted to finishing routine business. All business was concluded to-night and the confere ce adjourned.

Quay's Health Recovering.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 29.—Richard Quay son of Pennsylvania's junior senator, arrived home to-day. When asked in regard to his father's health, about which so many conflicting and alarming reports have been in circulation, he said: "Yes, father was very sick, the result of a cold settling on his lungs, but on Saturday, when I heard from him last, he was rapidly convalescing and almost well." "When will he return from Florida?" "He expects to remain about ten days longer in the south before going back to Washington."

A Boom in Railroad Stock.

NEW YORK, Feb 29.

It is reported on exchange here this afternoon that the New York Central has taken the leased lines, the Delaware and Hudson, and has agreed to conform rates with the Reading combination. The Delaware & Hudson stock jumped 12½ points at one leap.

That Coal Monopoly.

The combination of the Reading, Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central railroads is evidently contrary to law, and is clearly against public policy. The resolution introduced in Congress to inquire into the "deal" should not be permitted to slumber. Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania also has a duty to perform, and the promptness and thoroughness with which he has acted in similar emergencies inspire the hope that he will shirk no responsibility in the present instance.

The purpose of the amalgamation of railroads can be interpreted in no two ways. It is to control the output, transportation and marketing of coal, with a view to enriching a few railroad magnates at the expense of the public. President McLeod of the Reading, who engineered this consolidation scheme, does not occupy a place among public benefactors. He is working for himself and friends exclusively. To this end he has conceived a gigantic and dangerous monopoly, which will require prompt and vigorous measures to control.

There is no meaner monopoly than tha which takes advantage of the necessities of the poor, as this Reading coal monopoly proposes to do. It should be strangled at the start.

Republican State Convention.

Lieutenant Governor Watres, chairman of the republican state committee, has made arrangements to establish the headquarters of the committee at the Lochiel hotel, Harrisburg, during the state convention. The ladies' parlor and the room adjoining have been selected for that purpose. Among the candidates who will also have their headquarters at the Lochiel are Hon. A. L. Taggart, of Montgomery, and Mayor Alexander McDowell, of Mercer, candidates for congressmen-at-large; Judge Archbold, of Scranton, and Judge Sadler, of Carlisle, candidates for judge of the supreme court. United States Marshall Leeds, of Philadelphia; Hon. D. R. Horne, of Allentown, and the Lehigh delegation will also be at the Lochiel.

War on Sunday Newspapers.

PITTSBURG, March 2.—The Law and Order league is keeping up the war against the Sunday newspapers. Agent McClure and his assistants were busy last Sunday looking for violators of the law of 1794, and as a result seventeen more suits have been brought before Alderman Rohr against the newspaper dealers for selling papers on that day. The hearings will take place to morrow. Up to date about fifteen informations have been made, and in most every case the defendant was fined $25 and costs by the alderman. All the cases have been appealed, and next Saturday a week, March 11, has beeu fixed for the final hearings before the judges of the county courts.

EXPLOSION IN A PALACE.

FARIS, Feb. 29.

Farbourg street Germain, was startled early this morning by a terrific explosion in the Palace Sargan. It was at first thought to be the work of Socialists, and all the people in the neighboring houses rushed out into the streets robed only in their night clothes. On investigation it was found that the explosion was caused by a servant who, in sweeping in the door of the palace accidentally struck two tanks containing dynamite.

The Rioters Become Furious.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb 29, 10.10 a. m.

This morning two thousand of the striking street car rioters assaulted two special policeman, and would have killed them had it not been for the fact that they succeeded in getting under cover. The heaviest demonstration is expected at eleven o'clock when the first street car will start.

THE TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED.

PARIS. Feb 29.

Minister Reid, of the United States, and Minister Rock have reached an agreement on the commercial treaty with France. The United States bill will be introduced in the Chamber of Deputies on Thursday to ratify the agreement.

A BIG FIRE IN DAKOTA.

HOT SPRINGS S. DAK., FEB 29.

A fire broke out in this place this morning and before it could be checked had burned the postoffice and fifteen houses. Several firemen were badly injured by falling walls.

Commissioner Whitman Resigns.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 29.—At the World's Fair office to-day Executive Commissioner Whitman stated that his resignation is in the hands of the governor. His health did not justisy him continuing in the office.

THIRTEEN NEW CASES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.

Thirteen new cases of typhus fever were discovered by the health officials here this morning.

TOOK A STRIKER'S PLACE

A PHILADELPHIAN'S DANGEROUS EXPERIENCE AT INDIANAPOLIS

He Started to Drive a Street Car, But was Soon Compelled to Cesist for Fear of His Life—The Populace Declared to Be Absolutely Frenzied.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 29—Charles Ruthers, a Philadelphian, had a lively time at Indianapolis, where he had taken the place of one of the striking street car drivers. He was on his way to his home and while in the city detailed his experience to a reporter to-day. He said: "That is the worst city when a labor conflict is on that I have ever been in. The populace and labor sympathizers become frenzied and are capable of anything. I do not mind saying that I left Indianapolis because I feared my life, after what I encountered on Saturday. I had been out of work in Philadelphia and drifted westward. On Saturday morning I asked to be allowed to take out some of the street cars. It was my first experience as a street car driver, and I think I have lost all love for the business. The car had not gone more than a half dozen squares and the coast seemed so clear that I was congratulating myself that I would have no trouble, when suddenly the streets swarmed with men who seemed to arise from the earth. All were armed with missiles and in an instant I was rolling on the cobble stones and the car came to a standstill. I managed some how to make my escape down a side street, amid the yells of "Mob the scab!" etc., and did not venture to go for my pay. I soon acted on my determination to leave the city. There is likely to be blood shed there before the trouble is ended. The strikers have such a following that the police seem powerless, and it looks as if the demands will have to be granted if the cars are to be run."

Notable Deaths.

William Daniel Seeler, a well known civil engineer of Pennsylvania, and for many years secretary of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural society, a Harrisburg, aged 57.

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb 29.—John J. Gallagher, of Beaver Meadow, died yesterday. He was postmaster of that town during Cleveland's administration nd served one term in the legislature.

NEW YORK, Feb 29.—Thomas Dolan, one of the oldest telegraphers in the United States was found dead on the doorstep at the corner of Varick and and Broome streets, a little more than a block away from his home, about 12.30 yesterday morning The cause of death was apoplexy.

Y. M. C. A. NEWS.

The Young Men's Christian Association will hold a union meeting in the Reformed church next Sunday at 4 o'clock.

It will be addressed by several of the best speakers of the town, the subject will be "What good can the Young Men's Christian Association do our town." Each speaker will speak from his business stand point which will not only make the meeting interesting but instructive as well. The Ladies are especially invited to this meeting.

The Association wishes to thank the lady who so kindly furnished a pretty wastepaper basket for the rooms; we assure you it was very acceptable, also the one who gave the cute picture drape.

That Singing Class.

Monday night last was the regular evening for the first meeting of the new singing class to be organized in Bellefonte under the direction of Prof. W. T. Meyer. Owing to the bad weather and the entertainment in the opera house, however, there was a small attendance, and another meeting will be held next Monday night for a fuller organization. Now, when the opportunity offers, every young lady and gentleman in Bellefonte should take advantage of it and join the class.

The Good Gray Poet.

CAMDEN N .J., Feb. 29—Walt Whitman's condition is reported tonight much worse than for severel days past. The old poet is not resting as easily as he has been doing. He was greatly pleased to-day at having read to him a sympathetic letter from Alfred Tennyson, which was received to-day. The physician does not express himself as looking for an immediate dissolution, but says that it may come at any time.

Banks Must Report.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 29.—The superintendent of banking has issued a circular to all incorporated banks in the State notifying them that he had specified February 29 as the day upon which a report of the condition of such banks is to be made to him. He sent with the circular blank forms of report and the necessary papers.

Howard Items.

From our regular correspondent.

Jacob Dehass proprietor of the Syracuse house, who has been very ill is able to be about again.

Mr. George Fisher, left for Sterling run Cameron Co. Monday.

William Artley, an old resident of this place, is moving to Tyrone.

Mrs. McClintock mother of William McClintock died at her home in Salona Sunday morning at 10 o'clock funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. James Wyle, went fishing the other day and caught fifteen or twenty large suckers.

He bated his hook again, and sitting down dropped fast asleep, probably dreaming of the past in sto e, and how nice they would look in the pan. He awoke with a start, and was just in time to see a large musk rat, (which he discribe as being about the size of a cow) disappear with the fish. Just then he saw his line give a jerk. He grabbed the pole and drew out a fine large mullet. He was thinking so much about the lost fish that he was a little slow about getting the mullet off, when the musk rat came and took the last lingering trophy of a hard day's work.

You are a good fisherman James, but you will have to keep your eyes open if you can get ahead of the musk rat.

Shall We Interpret?

On Monday the up-town daily paper, which calls itself the Gazette, came out in a three inch item in a vain endeavor to criticise by trying to interpret a small local which appeared in THE NEWS a few days since, regarding Bellefonte's coming fourth of July. It might here be added that the item in question needed no interpretation as everybody knows that Bellefonte is listed as having a demonstration for that day and all that is now necessary is to prepare to have as big a time as possible with the boys. But when it comes down to the matter of correctly interpreting we wonder if it would not be a good idea for the up-town office to engage one. At least they should have some one to go around and explain to their readers just why it is that they so frequently publish articles two and three days after the same have been published in this paper And just why they time after time, as many as a dozen altogether, published that column story entitled "The Dog That Won the Prize." And thus we might go on asking for interpretations on things innumerable, but time and space with us are too precious to devote to such small business, only to say don't find fault with your neighbors until you yourself are perfect.

Almost Asphyxiated.

A. F. Kingport and family had an uncomfortable and unfortunate experience yesterday morning. Mr. Kingport is general manager in the large store of Wilson & Isenberg, and he removed from Harrisburg to Tyrone recently, last week taking up his residence on Washington avenue in the house previously occupied by J. W. Howe. In the house they were using a double heating stove and this article caused the trouble. Gas escaping from it during Saturday night penetrated the whole house and was fast bringing the members of the family to a state of suffocation, when at five o'clock Sunday morning Mr Kingport, though suffering from the effects of the irrespirable gas summoned Dr. W. L. Lowrie who applied the proper restoratives. Mrs. Kingport and the two daughters were the greatest sufferers by the occurence.—Tyrone Herald.

tory of an Editor.

A editor died and slowly wended his way to hell. The devil saw him and said: "For many years thou has borne the blame for the many errors thy printers made in thy paper. Thy paper has failed. alas! For subscriptions were never paid, Thy printers have deviled thee on Saturday eve for wages when thou hadst not a red to thy name. Men have taken thy paper without paying a cent; yea verily, and cursed thee for not issuing a better. All these things hast thou borne in silence. Thou canst not come in. There will be continual dunning of subscribers (for hel is full of them,) and discord will be created in our kingdom. Begon! Heaven is thy home."—Pearsall (Tex.) News.

Congratulations for Reed.

WASHINGTON, Feb 29.—Representative Reed was warmly congratulated today by his colleagues on the decision of the supreme court rendered today sustaining his action in counting a quorum. To a reporter he said: "I never had any doubt of the correctness of my ruling. I never thought that there could be found at any time, or in any place, a judge of any supreme court who would decide it in any other way" When asked whether Speaker Crisp would accept the ruling of the court and be guided by it, Mr Reed replied that he certainly thought he ought to.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE REPUBLICANS ADVISED TO STAND FIRM.

The Democrats to make a Free Trade Move—The Bland Free Coinage Bill Soon to Come Up.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29, 1892.

Ex-Speaker Reed and other long-headed Representatives have advised their Republican colleague in the House not to extend a helping hand to either the Democratic majority or minority in that body, but to let them fight out among themselves whether a free coinage bill shall be passed by the House. If this advice be taken, and it is believed that with a few exceptions it will be, the passage of the Bland free coinage bill which is to be called up under a resolution from the Committee on Rules just as soon as the House put itself on record in favor of free trade by passing one of the tariff bills reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, is a certainty, although it will not be accomplished without a very bitter parliamentary fight. The latest scheme of Representative Carter, of Ohio, who has made himself the leader of the anti-silver Democrats to kill the effect of free coinage is to offer as an amendmen thereto a proviso that all pensions shall be paid in gold; that depositors in saving banks shall have the right to demand payment in gold; that all holders of life insurance policies shall be entitled to gold payments, and that every man, woman ar child working for wages, or who receives a yearly salary of less than $1500 shall have the right to payment in gold.

Individually seven out of ten Senators and Representatives will agree as to the immediate and pressing necessity for a new building for the Government Printing Office, and that Senator Gallinger, in his recent speech, did not exaggerate the danger to the health and lives of the nearly three thousand men and women who work in the rickety old building at present occupied by that office; they will acknowledge that they share the shame felt by Senator Gallinger when he went through the magnificent buildings erected in our large cities for the use of the big daily newspapers and contrasted them in his mind with the Government Printing Office building, and yet collectively, Congress does nothing towards erecting a new building. It will be much cheaper to erect a new and first-class building than it would be to pay damages for several hundred people kille or crippled by an accident likely to occur at any time in the building now in use as Congress may some day learn.

Every day there is a different bill announced as the one that is to be first called up in the House by the Ways and Means committee. To-day it is the Springer free wool bill, and to-morrow is the day set for it to be called up. If the programme is carried out there will be about three weeks devoted to tariffs, each before the bill is pressed to a vote.

The resolution offered in the House from he committee on public buildings and grounds declaring it to be "unwise nd expedient to ente upon legislation looking to the construction of new public buildings, "because of the alleged act of money in the Treasury, is as arrant bit of buncomb as was ever attempted in Congress, being a part of the democratic sceeme to try to bamboozle the people by cutting down the appropriations at this session, in order to allow the democrats to pose as economists in the Presidential campaign. The democratic members representing districts in need of public buildings are told to keep quiet until after the Presidential election when their buildings will be provided for; but it is difficult to keep them quiet and a row is pending over the resolution.

Even the democrats admit that the President has by the unusually har work he has done this winter earned the week's rest he is now taking, with his family, in Virginia.

Secretary Noble preceded his evidence before the Pension Office investigating committee with a statement of his having come as a willing witness, and not because of any authority he recognized in the committee to compel his attendance, and he closed by "nailing a thousand and one lies," with these words: "I want to say one word which is not in response to a question, and that is that I regard Gen. Raum as an efficient Commissioner of Pensions. I believe he is conducting the Pension Bureau in a proper and business like way."

Jerry Simpson appears to be souring on the democrats to whom he has hereto fore seemed inclined to favor. On Saturday, while the House was discussing Mr Bowers' ammendment to the Indian appropriation bill authorizing the President to detail officers of the army as Indian agents, which after being amended with a roviso that officers acting as Indian agents shall be under the orders of the Secretary of the Interior, was passed, Mr Simpson said: "I cannot see how the democrats can vote against this amendment, unless it be th t they expect to control political force in the future But in view of the dissention in their ranks and their inability to agree on any economic policy it is not clear to me that th y wil have a chance to control it."

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

The Anrual Report Ready, and Here Are Some Figures.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 28.—Colonel Alex. Krumbhaar, acting adjutant general has completed the annual report of the National Guard, upon which Gen. McClelland was engaged when overtaken by his last illness. The total strength of the guard is shown to be 8,493, a gain of 23 over the preceding year, and divided as follows: Major general and staff, 16; First brigade, 2,658; Second brigade, 3,116; Third brigade, 2,680; Company D, Tenth regiment, was the only one mustered out during the year. Reference is made to the three brigade encampments in the report and satisfactory progress in knowledge of camp duties is noted. The guard is declared to be in excellent condition.

During the year there was a gain of 242 sharpshooters and 1.305 marksmen, the present totals being 1,912 sharpshooters and 5,775 marksmen. Every officer and enlisted man in the Twelfth and Thirteenth regiment is qualified. The report states that as the new drill regulations now in the hands of the printer provide for a regiment composed of third batallions, a reorganization of the guard on that basis will be necessary, but such action will await the disposition of the bill now before congress on this subject. As soon as the new regulations are out the officers of the guard will be supplied with them. Attention is directed in the report to the need of better great coats, and a suggestion is thrown out that the next legislature will be asked for an appropriation for this purpose. New haversacks and rubber blankets have been purchased and are ready for issue when needed. Companies having worn out woollen blankets will probably be squired to draw new ones and have the cost thereof charged against their company allowance.

The report dwells at some length on the service of the Tenth and Eighteenth regiments in the coke regions last spring and the efficiency of the guard is set forth.

Major General George R. Snowden has submitted to the adjutant general a plan of reorganization of the guard, and it accompanies the report. He recommends further the transfer of company I, Eighteenth regiment, to the Tenth, making each a regiment of eight companies; that two infantry companies of the Third brigade be mustered for the Eighth regiment; that a light battery be raised at Philadelphia and a troop within the limit of the Third brigade, the mounted troops to be formed into a permanent battalion organization. This plan would make the guard consist of two regiments of twelve companies, three battalions each; twelve regiments of eight companies, two battalions each; an independent battalion (State Fencibles); one naval battalion; one battalion of cavalry and one of artillery.

For the present he thinks it advisable that a battalion in each regiment shall be commanded by the lieutenant colonel. The question of an additional major in each regiment, he suggests, can be determined hereafter.

—The parties who undertook to dig a grave in Slab Cabin cemetery on Monday gave it up for an impossible job owing to an obstacle in the shape of a rock of unknown dimensions. In this dilemma word was sent to Bellefonte, and on Monday afternoon Mr. Shutt, who has charge of the Union cemetery in this place, and Mr. Hugh Taylor went out. They took with them implements enough to carve down a mountain. and dynamite enough to blow out a tunnel. It is hardly necessary to add that they got the grave dug deep enough.

—In the prize essay contest offered by Mr. Bristol for the best essays on the horse, Daniel Keller, Jr., won the first prize of $5 in gold; Blanche Underwood, the second prize of $2.50 in gold, and Lillie Parsons the third prize of two reserved seats tickets for this evening's performance. The prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the matinee this afternoon.

—Ex-Chief Market clerk Hastings, of Pittsburg, was on Saturday sentenced to to pay a fine of six cents and undergo an imprisonment of eight months. There is every reason to believe that Hastings would have been willing to have paid four times the fine and not go to prison at all.

Valerie;

OR,

HALF A TRUTH.

BY "THE DUCHESS."

She turned and walked impatiently through the room.

"I don't know—I don't care!" she said in a reckless kind of manner that a better woman than Constance Langley would hardly have liked to see, "but I can't marry him. Things are so—so different from what they were then—I—I couldn't live as I used to. I should not be happy—I have grown worldly," with a short, bitter little laugh, "and I must have the world, and all that belongs to it!"

She was playing a part in uttering these words that belied her, in wild terror of the possible question her conscience made her morbidly anticipate:

"Are you fancying yourself in love with some other man?"

She went out of her way to make her aunt believe that it was love of the world, dread of poverty, that made her cast Louis off.

Yet her cheek colored at the deception. She would have cast the world and all that belonged to it into the depths of the sea for Max Beauregard's sake; she would beg her bread by his side sooner than be a king's consort.

But Mrs. Langley was, naturally enough, deceived; and smiled, well-pleased, on her pupil. To do her credit, she honestly believed that a wealthy marriage was the happiest state for any girl.

Now and then some ill-regulated woman broke loose, and created a temporary scandal, but the majority settled down, and were much more to be envied than those who married "for love," and who were just as likely to end in the divorce court as anyone else.

"If you prefer it, my dear," said Mrs. Langley, "I will write to Mr. Charteris, for of course there was no engagment——"

"No!" interrupted the girl, resolutely, "I will not be cowardly as well as fickle! In honor—between us two—there was an engagement. I will see him myself!"

"The carriage is at the door, ma'am," said a footman, appearing, and a few minutes later Valerie was being mobbed at a crowded "at home," and only feeling that existence was for her a sunless sea, since "love was done," and the man she worshipped must utterly despise her!

"Behind no prison-gate, she said,
Which slurs the sunshine half a mile,
Lie captives so uncomforted
As souls behind a smile."

CHAPTER XXIII.—AT THE MAGAZINE.

Max Beauregard might have multiplied himself a dozen times if he had accepted

It was a splendid turn-out, everyone said.

all the offers he received of box-seats for the turn-out of the Four-in-hand Club, or he could have tooled his brother's coach; but he declined all allurements; he had business at the War Office, he said, and so he had; only he might easily have put it off.

"Shameful!" cried a chorus of fair ones, each one of whom had made up her mind that Colonel Beauregard was going to drive his brother's famous bays, with her on the seat beside him.

It was a splendid turn-out, everyone said; and so it was. The day was fine, the Park crowded, and the coaches came forth in force. Numbers came to see the beauty, Valerie Herbert, and they were not disappointed, for there she was in gray satin, Charles II. hat with sweeping plumes, the loveliest woman where lovely faces might be seen at every turn. Aston Lawford drove four browns, and drove them well; and behind him sat pretty women and good-looking men; but nobody looked at him, and he was well-contented that his beautiful box-companion diverted all attention from even his tooling, of which he was somewhat proud, though coaching men only allowed him second rank as a whip.

But while Valerie laughed and talked gaily, her quick, far-seeing eyes were searching half nervously among the crowds by the railing; and suddenly, while a line of coaches stood waiting, she saw the face she sought, but scarcely wished to see. A light color flitted across her own, as for a moment she met Louis' upward glance, full of pain and anger; then her eyes sank, and she bowed and turned away. When she looked again Louis was gone.

"There is Mr. Beauregard's coach just behind us," said one of the ladies at the back—pretty Mrs. Leicester; "but I thought the Colonel would drive it."

"He isn't here to-day at all," said Lawford. "I saw him last night in Whitehall Gardens, and he said he would be busy at the War Office."

Was Valerie relieved, or the opposite? She could not have told; but Mrs. Leicester said:

"Bother the War Office! why couldn't the man do his work there another day?"

Lawford smiled.

"A lady's way of looking at business," he said. But Mrs. Leicester was right this time, though she didn't know it.

By-and-by, when the coaches were moving on at walking pace, the "iron man" asked Valerie:

"Was not that Mr. Charteris you bowed to a little while ago?"

He had heard of Louis from Mrs. Langley, though not of any engagement between the young man and Valerie.

"Yes," she answered, nonchalantly. My lady was somewhat offended by the tone.

"He scarcely looked pleased to see you," continued Lawford; "was it because you were here

Valerie opened her great eyes on him with a stare of comical surprise.

"Why should he, or anyone, mind that?" she said, with that determined naivete which is sometimes very aggravating in a lovely woman, but very witching all the same. "I might have been with anyone else. The Duke of —— offered me his box-seat; and poor little Emly almost knelt to me to go on his."

"And yet," said Lawford, lowering his tone, "you gave me the preference!"

"Simply," with a shrug, "because if I went with the Duke the Duchess would be jealous; and I heartily dislike Emily."

Lawford's brow darkened.

"Am I only a pis aller, then?" he said.

"You should take blessings as they come," said Valerie, gravely, "and not inquire too closely why they come. No—no more, please. One positively can not be serious on the box-seat of a coach; though I verily believe you would be serious at a carnival."

"And you serious at nothing!" returned Lawford, almost brusquely. He loved Valerie in a selfish, narrow fashion; or, more correctly, he was dazzled and infatuated, and wanted her beauty to crown the edifice of his wealth—and shed, by its fame, a kind of halo over himself.

His gentle blood and good-breeding saved him from being a snob in the worst and most vulgar sense; but there is a kind of snobbery which may be found among well-born men and women, and is more or less offensive to fine senses; and to this class Aston Lawford belonged; a pride, not of wealth, but of those things which wealth procures—his pictures, his horses, his establishment generally. "The iron entered into his soul," Max Beauregard said of him once; and, it may be added, the witty paraphrase in application, but not of words, was somehow repeated to Aston Lawford, and then he never forgave it.

"Now you are cross," said Valerie, very coolly, and shrugging her shoulders; but inwardly she quailed. Was she going too far with this man? She had never supposed that he really cared for her. Could it be that he did—that she was trifling with him?

"And you—cruel!" returned Lawford, lowering his colors at once. Valerie would have respected him better if he had been less ready to yield. As it was she answered by another shrug, and bowed with unnecessary empressement to Harry Dallas, who was on horseback among the spectators.

Some of the coaches, among them Lawford's and Gerald Beauregard's, drove down to the Crystal Palace for luncheon, and there, as everywhere, Valerie Herbert was the centre of attraction. If homage and flattery could make happiness, she ought to have been sublimely happy. Lady Elinor remarked to her husband that the girl flirted outrageously, and he smiled.

"What can be expected," he said, "when a girl is so fascinating, and men make such a fuss with her? But 'outrageously' is a strong term. Is the Lawford affair settled?"

"Her aunt told me yes. Valerie has gone almost too far to recede; besides, why should she, unless some duke or earl came forward—and there are none eligible at present."

And when Gerald and his wife returned to Whitehall Gardens, Max threw down the book he had been holding, but not reading, the last ten minutes, and asked them, smiling, how the meet had gone off?

"Splendidly!" said Lady Elinor. "Why, have you heard nothing about it?"

"I was at the War office," he answered, "until three o'clock, and then I had a lot of letters to write, so I came straight home. You seem tired, Gerald," he added, to his brother.

"I am; you know how little I care for London life. I shall take myself off to Abbot's Leigh very soon, and leave you to take care of Nellie."

Then Lady Elinor began to tell all about the meet and the luncheon, and of course Valerie came to the front. How she looked, what she wore, how everyone said it would be "a match" with Lawford; how she flirted, and all the rest of it. To which Colonel Beauregard listened with a due amount of interest, and gave no hint that he was on the rack the whole time; and Lady Elinor afterward said complacently to her husband:

"It is lucky Max doesn't seem to have taken a fancy to Valerie Herbert. He wouldn't get over it as most men get over disappointments."

If she had seen Max Beauregard when he was alone again—seen the gray agony of his face, heard the whisper: "Oh, Heaven! oh, Valerie! my love, my love!"—her shrewd ladyship, who flattered herself that few men or women could deceive her, might have owned that one man, at least, knew how to keep the pensieri streiti behind the volto scilto.

CHAPTER XXIV.—"I CANNOT MARRY YOU!"

"She is false and fickle—not worthy any man's second thought," said Louis Charteris to himself, as he turned away from the railing near the Magazine. "I will not see her to-morrow." And he went back to the office and wrote a letter to Valerie full of bitter reproaches, which he tore up as soon as it was finished. Hope was not so dead within him as he had imagined; and he woke up on Thursday morning with the resolve to go and see Valerie. Surely she could not intend to throw him over for a fellow like Lawford, rich though the latter was!

The young man knew not whether he hoped most or feared most when he took his way to Upper Brook Street, but he rallied himself as he drew near the house, and was able to ask calmly for Miss Herbert.

The footman, who had his orders, conducted the young man at once to the drawing-room, and, opening the door, announced:

"Mr. Charteris."

For a moment Louis only saw, as if through a mist, a tall, slender form standing at the other side of the room, a gleam of golden hair, a flow of white draperies; but as the figure moved forward slowly, the mist rolled away, and he beheld Valerie clearly, her face as white as her robes, her large eyes fixed on his with a strange mingling of fear and appeal, and all the power of her rare and pathetic beauty reasserted itself and held him in its spell. He sprang forward; he would have clasped the girl in his arms, but she stopped short, and with a wild gesture, with almost a cry, checked the impulse. He reeled back.

"Valerie!" he gasped, half dizzy with the sudden revulsion.

"Not that!" said the girl, hoarsely, her lips, every limb quivering—"that can never be again! Louis, bear with me. Oh! what can I say to you—how shall I tell you?"

But Louis only stood and looked at her, the flush on his cheek fading slowly away and leaving intense paleness. He seemed incapable of speech.

Valerie went on, desperately:

"It was a mistake from the beginning—on my part. But how should I know it then? I loved you only as I had always loved you, and as I love you now. I cannot marry you, Louis—I cannot—I cannot!"

"Stay!" said the young man, hoarsely. He moved a step nearer to her. "Have they taught you to be untruthful as well as mercenary and worldly? You loved me until you learned to love wealth, and admiration, and position more. Ay, you may shrink from me"—for instinctively she had recoiled before the accusation so false, yet against which she dare not defend herself—"but you know that what I say is true. You are breaking your promise to me for the sake of a man you do not and never will love; but he is a millionaire, and I have nothing. He will load you with jewels, and give you all else that you have learned to value so much more than love. And you will count yourself happy. Happy!" he laughed, harshly. "And I? But what is that to you? No matter what I suffer, if you can be the reigning beauty and the wife of a man whose wealth will enable you to outstrip every other woman."

Not a word did Valerie utter; not by a sign or gesture did she offer to interrupt this tirade, which Louis poured out, not standing still, but walking excitedly up and down. She only set her teeth in silent endurance. He wronged her, but she must bear it. Better a thousand times that he should believe all that he had accused her of than even suspect the truth. She had so dreaded the charge!

"It is Max Beauregard who stands between us. For his sake you are false to me!"

She breathed more freely when told that she was untruthful, mercenary, worldly. It was hard to be misjudged by one she so dearly loved. But when Max Beauregard must so misjudge her, and she could endure it, what other suffering could overtax her powers of endurance?

Louis paused suddenly, looked at the motionless figure, the white face of the girl, and drew near to her again.

"What!" he said, "have you no answer—no denial? For Heaven's sake, Valerie," he stretched out his hands, the words were almost a cry of anguish, "don't tell me that you are so false—so miserably unworthy!"

The blood rushed to Valerie's cheek and brow. Passionate denial was on her lips. Then, with a quick-drawn breath, she turned away, locking her hands over her breast. She dared not plead the truth; she could not speak a falsehood.

Louis drew back and folded his arms. There was a dead pause.

The girl's face had grown white again; she scarcely seemed to breathe; her eyes were bent down, her head drooping; she stood before her lover like a guilty creature; but oh, how beautiful—how beautiful she was! and that beauty she was going to sell for gold! That thought nerved Louis to scorn.

"Silent still!" he broke forth at last, laying a sudden grip on the girl's slender wrist—she did not shrink or tremble now. "You own it, then? own that you are ready to barter your youth and beauty for money? You will give yourself, body and soul, to a man old enough to be your father, not because he is noble and good, and you love him, but because he is rich! Never mind that you and I were boy and girl together—that your word was pledged to me—that I have loved you faithfully; all that is nothing—nothing now! I am poor, and Aston Lawford is rich. I might have known it long ago; but I was an idiot, and I hoped against hope. Very soon the love of the world began to eat your heart out; your letters were cold and infrequent—your manner when we met was changed! Oh, I have been a fool! and you, no doubt, laughed at my folly——"

"Louis! Louis!"

"Ay!" he exclaimed, savagely, "you can cry out when you are stabbed; but you may stab me to the heart, and I must suffer in silence! That is a woman's privilege. A blight on the wretched code you have so quickly learned, and on all who follow it! I have done with you! I hope I may never see your false face again!"

He almost flung her from him as he spoke, and turned to the door. Valerie staggered, and caught at a chair near her.

"Louis," she said, choking back the sob in her throat, "must we part like this?"

But he did not heed—perhaps did not hear—the words; blind with passion and pain, he could only see that he was deliberately abandoned for the sake of wealth and position; could only read conscious guilt in Valerie's silence, in her drooping eyes and changing color; a longer experience of life might have helped him here; but Louis was not yet four-and-twenty, and knew little or nothing of human nature. Valerie had loved him—loved him how—but loved the world more. He was too young to be pitiful; his love had not the strength and depth for the noble sorrow that could cry "The pity on't!" Valerie was miserably mean and despicably, utterly without excuse; she had grown cold and heartless; she cared nothing for suffering she inflicted; so, with only anger and resentment in his heart, Louis rushed out of the room, and a minute later was striding away from the house, hardly knowing where he went, and feeling as if all the world was false and hollow, and his life could never again hold anything worth living for.

And suddenly—there was a roar in his ears—shouting—a mist before his eyes—a strong hand seized him, and plucked him from under the nose of a rearing carriage-horse; a voice that somehow seemed familiar, exclaimed:

"Louis Charteris! Confound it, man! do you want to commit suicide?"

And the young man lifted his dazed eyes to the handsome face of Max Beauregard.

CHAPTER XXV.—LOVE VS. GOLD.

"I don't know how it happened," Louis said, vaguely. "Where is this?"

Of course there was a crowd; the brougham which had nearly run over the heedless wayfarer stopped, two or three hansoms ditto, also several passengers, and a dozen or more of those idlers who seem to be shot, as from a catapult, to the scene of any accident.

"I should say you didn't," replied Colonel Beauregard. "This is Regent Street. You don't seem well, old fellow. We'll drive the rest of the way home."

He raised his hand.

"Right, sir!" responded alert cabby, who had had an eye to business.

Then Louis hesitated.

"But——" he began.

"Jump in, man," returned Beauregard, quickly. "We shall have all Regent Street round us in a minute."

Louis obeyed, and Max followed.

"Where are you living?" he asked.

Louis gave the address, and the cab bowled away toward the modest street where the Foreign Office clerk dwelt.

ECHOES FROM THE CAUCUS.

ALL WAS NOT LOVELY AT THE MEETING THURSDAY NIGHT.

Furnished by Hon. Thomas Dunn English, of New Jersey, Stating it was a Gathering of Blackguards and He was Laughed Down for It.

WASHINGTON, February, 26.—There are a number of echoes of last nigh't caucus in circulation this morning on the house side of the capital. The general impression is that the caucus left matters exactly where they were before it was held. The whole matter, it is felt, still rest with the committee on rules This committee has not yet had any summous to meet. The tariff bill will come up in the house next week and the silver men are insisting that the Bland bill shall be definitely fixed in the democratic programme before a discussion of the tariff is entered upon. It is probably, therefore, that the rules committees will meet between now and Tuesday. A good story was told in the democratic room this morning of one of the unpublished incidents of last night's caucus.

About 10 o'clock when the caucus had been in session two hours, and the desires of members to get the floor was increasing with each movement of the hands of the clock to-day—midnight—there were a dozen members on their feet all claiming recognition. Mr. Oates who subsequently made the motion which resulted in an adjournment was anxious to get an opportunity to more to adjourn. Mr. Springer and some othere who knew the object called the attention of Chairman Holman to the fact that Mr. Oates was asking to be heard. Mr. Holman recognized Mr. Oates. Among the other members standing up was Mr. Edmunds, of Virginia.

The delegation from Virginia are always anxious to get "Farmer Paul," as he is known, to make a speech in which they are not always successful through Mr Edmund's diffidence. They persuaded him that Mr. Holman had granted him recognition and the member from Virginia, in his rich, powerful voice, started in to address the caucus. On the other side of the chamber Mr. Thomas Dunn English, of New Jersey, was one of many others earnestly striving to address the caucus. Mr. English has not a loud voice and cannot be heard a great distance. He appealed to the chair, saying: "Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of personal privilege, the highest that can come before this body."

Only a dozen or more of the members heard him. Mr. English, hearing Mr. Edmunds's strong voice overpowering his own, and becoming angry at what he thought was a denial of his right, continued: "Mr. Chairman, I thought I was in a caucus of democrats and gentlemen. I find I am in a gathering of blackguards,', and he added with emphasis, for a man of 72 years of age, "I hold myself responsible for what I say, sir." The members who heard the remark were convulsed with laughter, which resulted in diminishing the irritation that was devolping.

A MINISTER'S BLACKMAIL.

Rev. Mr. Laird Arrested for Demanding $1,000 to Atone for Intimacy with Mrs. Laird.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—A sensation was caused in East St. Louis yesterday by the arrest of Rev. J. M. Laird, of Gillespie, Macoupin county, on a charge of blackmail preferred by Frank P. Bowman, the largest land-owner, and probably the wealthiest man in East St. Louis.

Mr. Bowman received two letters from Rev. Mr. Laird, charging him with undue intimacy with Mrs. Laird, and offering to compromise the offense on payment of $1,000 in cash. Mr. Laird acknowledged writing the letters, and declares the intimacy has been going on for some time. He attempts to justify his demand for money on the ground that he is a poor man, and deemed that $1,000 atoned for the crime to a certain extent, beside it would teach Bowman a useful lesson.

Spring Mills Items.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Miss Ida Condo returned home yesterday afternoon afternoon after a week's visit with friends at State College.

Chas. Gramley and family took the west bound trai.. last evening for Illinois where they will make their future home. They took with them the best wishes of their many friends, for success and prosperity in their new home.

Peter Auman of Altoona, formely of this place, has moved back, and will make this his future home.

J. J. Taylor and family of Madisonburg, moved to this place yesterday.

A dance will be held in the Bibby hotel to-night.

Is Field Crazy?

Edward M. Field is now on trial for his peculiar financial exploits and the tendency of the evidence so far shows that he is insane. Other members of the family it seemes are afflicted similary. One now in the insane asylum. It would be more satisfactory to his friends to find that he is insane, than that he was such a rascal as his actions indicated.

A FIGHT WILL BE MADE.

The Republicans are not disposed to allow the perpetration of such an outrage, as the unseating of Colonel Stewart is conceded to be, to pass without filing their protests. Quite a number have expressed their intention of defending the minority report which was brought in a few days ago by Mr. Johnson, of Indiana, who will have charge of the debate on that side. Among the Pennsylvania Congressmen who have signified their intention of defending their colleague's claim to his seat are Messrs. John Dalzell, W. A. Stone and C. W. Stone.

THE LOG CROP FOR 1892.

The Lumber That Will be Floated to Lock Haven and Williamsport.

Lock Haven Express, 24th.

The work of putting in the lumber that will be floated to the booms at Lock Haven and Williamsport this, is about completed, and with favorable floods the whole of the stock will reach the mills and will be cut this season. A gentleman who is thoroughly posted on the lumbering operations, and whose estimate made last spring for the Express of the amount of lumber that would reach the booms last year proved entirely correct, has furnished the following report of the logs that will be floated in the coming season: The whole number of feet in round numbers for Lock Haven and Williamsport booms will be 190,000,000 feet. Last year there were in round numbers 263,000,000 feet rafted out of the Williamsport boom alone.

The logs put in the river from Lock Haven to the mouth of the Sinnemahoning are estimated at twelve million feet. On Kettle Creek forty million feet, Driftwood and First Fork branches of the Sinnemahoning together, twenty millions, Bennet's branch and its tributaries forty-six million feet. On the river from Keating west there are about twelve million feet, making a total west of this city of one hundred and thirty million feet. Pine Creek and its tributaries will furnish about sixty million feet, making a total of 190,000,000. About 180,000,000 is the amount of feet estimated to reach the Williamsport boom this year. There is but little pine this year, the great bulk of the lumber being hemlock. In making this estimate no note was taken of the square timber or rafted logs which will come in during the season.

New York Ruled out of the Fight.

Mr. Haynes, of Ohio, is of the opinion that the situation in New York indicates that no New York man can get the nomination. The sentimens outside of the Empire State is too great against Hill to admit of his being chosen, and the fact that Cleveland has not the indorsement of his own State delegation is an effectual bar against his successful candidacy.

Mr. Crosby, of Massachusetts, is of the same opinion, and is firmly convinced that some one outside of New York will be chosen.

Neither Senator Gorman or Brice were in their seats to-day. Small groups of Senators from both sides of the chamber were observed frequently chatting together, the subject of their conversation evidently being Senator Hill,s alleged victory at Albany.

CULLOM AND ALLISON.

Senator Cullom and Allison were in their places, and were subjected te considerable hand shaking over the recent announcement of their having entered the Presidental race. Senetor Cullom has been out for some time, but it is only within a few days that the Republican State newspapers in Iowa have taken up the candidacy of her favorite son.

Cleveland Men Not Scared.

Representative Andrew, of Massachusetts, is one of the Cleveland men who is not scared by the action of Tammany's Midnight Convention. He said to-day that notwithstanding Senator Hill's indorsement by the convention, he firmly believes that Mr. Cleveland will be nominated. He believes that the public sentiment throughout the country will condemn the machine methods of New York and will determine that Mr. Hill should not have the nomination. Mr. Hill's nomination, in his opinion, would mean the defeat of the party, and in order to prevent his capturing the Chicago Convention, as he did that at Albany, it is necessary for the Democrats to combine on Cleveland. He said that Cleveland was strong throughout the country, and he believed that the popular disgust at New York methods would cause the Democrats in other states to show New York that they would not be controlled by Tammany.

Death Near Morris Lime Kiln.

Miss Jennie Mullin, died at her home near Morris's lime kilns, Buffalo run, last evening at 11 o'clock. Her death was caused by a severe attack of the grip. The funeral will take place from the house Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Leidy will officiate and the remains will be interred in the Advent cemetery.

LETTER LIST.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the Bellefonte post-office Feb. 24 1892.

O. W. Bishop, Mrs. William Keiner, Mrs. Clara Markle. Hugh Moore, John Moore, Pickan Andro.

MR FUREY'S ILLNESS.

About two weeks ago Mr. Furey, editor of the Lock Haven Democrat, was compelled, on account of an attack of erysipelas to take his bed where he is yet confined, but hopes of his speedy recovery are entertained by all.

More Gold Goes Abroad.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Heidelbach, Ickelheimer & Company, to-day took $600,000 gold from the Sub-Treasury for export.

STEWART CAN GO HOME.

CRIAG ADDS ONE MORE TO THE MAJORITY.

Action On The First House Contest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—In the absence of the Vice President and President pro tem., Mr. Harris occupied the chair in the Senate to-day. The joint resolution for the international bi-metallic agreement was laid over without action. The bill relative to the improvement of Philadelphia harbor, providing the material excavated may be deposited wherever the engineer officer in charge approves, was passed. The conference report on the census deficiency bill was agreed to.

The Idaho election case was taken up, and Clagget, the contestant, allowed to speak in his own behalf two hours, discussing the details of the question and criticising the majority report. A large audience in the galleries and the Senators on both sides listened attentively, but no action was taken. After a short executive session the Senate at 4.20 adjourned until Monday next.

IN THE HOUSE.

After referring a few private bills the House this morning resumed consideration of the Craig-Stewart contested election case, Stone, of Pennsylvania, supporting the claim of the sitting member. After a speech by Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, in favor of the contestee, the previous question was ordered without opposition, and the minority resolution confirming Stewart's right to his seat was defeated—yeas 58, nays 150. The majority resolution seating Craig was adopted without division, and Craig, appearing at the bar of the House, took the oath of office. Cochran, of New York, and Babbit, of Wisconsin, voted in favor of the Republican contestee.

The urgent deficiency bill was then passed and the House took a recess until 3 o'clock this evening, when, after passing a number of pension bills the House adjourned.

THE WOOL BILL TO BE FIRST.

The wool bill will be the first of the tariff bills to be taken up in the House, the members of the Ways and Means Committee reaching this conclusion to-day after a short conference. The second bill to be considered will probably be the Bryan bill making binding twine free, and the cotton bagging bill. It is likely there will be more or less general discussion of the whole tariff question in consideration of the whole bill, which it is expected will occupy about three weeks. The lumber bill has not been finally considered by the Democratic members of the committee.

Mr. Parish Not In It.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 27.—Chas. Parrish, one of the largest individual operators in the Wyoming coal field, was seen by the Associated Press reporters to-day. He denies positively that any overtures have been made to him by the Reading company for the sale of his coal. "I believe, however," he continued, "from what I hear in coal circles that other operators have been approached. I have no reason to doubt that the basis of the agreement as published by the New York and Philadelphia papers is correct, but I have no personal knowledge of the matter."

The Glycerine Kicked Back.

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—Oliver Reaume and four other boys found a ke of lard-like substance frozen in the ice near the Grosse Isle shore yesterday and decided to make a bonfire with it. It melted with the heat but would not blaze, so Reaume gave the keg a kick. A terrific explosion ensued, tearing off both of his legs nd one arm and knocking ll the others down. Reaume died soon afterwards. The substance was nitro-gl cerine

RESIGNED.

GEORGE—Mabel, I could die for you! Will you be mine?

MABEL—Yes, if you can get Papa's consent, without which I could not marry the best man in the world.

GEORGE—Good; I'll go and consult him instantly. (Sadly) I told you I could die for you!

The Swain.

Beauty draws us by a single hair, but cold cash draws us by a single heiress.

A Just Verdict.

Judge—Young man, you are accused of attempting suicide with a revolver. What motive had you for this criminal act, sir?

Prisoner—Please your Honor, I belonged to the 400, but when Wawd cut the ranks down to 150, I was barred out, and life being no longer, worth living, I tried to blow my brains out!

Judge—Six months for being such a poor shot!—The Clubman.

Rioting in Guatemala.

CITY OF MEXICO, February 27—Telegraphic dispatches received here from Guatemala state that there is considerable rioting in the interior, and that a coup d'etat by President Barillos is feared. It is also stated that the authorities of San Salvador are moving troops on the Guatamalan frontier. President Barillos is consulting with the chief of the army.

A Brilliant Wedding.

LEBANON, Pa., Feb. 26.—A brilliant wedding took place in this city last evening, the contracting parties being Common Councilman Robert H. Hammond, son of David Hammond, for many years manager of the Donamore furnace and treasurer of the Cornwall Railroad company, and Miss Florence Uhler, a niece of Attorney General Hensel.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

We have received the February issue of the World's Columbian Exposition illustrated, the authentic organ of the Exposition. Its pages are replete with illustrations. This is the twelfth issue of this valuable paper, and is decidedly the handsomest number yet published. This issue contains a full account of the first year's work in preparing for the great Exposition. The statements given show the vast amounts that have been expended, all presented in detail, and also the amount that will be required to complete the work. Among the great number of illustrations many photographic views are given, showing the advancement of the work on the buildings to date. The centerpiece is lithographic plates of the most important buildings, printed in colors, and forms a most handsome and valuable work of art. A large view is also given of the inner temple of the Palace of Mitla, which was erected in Mexico in the dark ages and which will be reproduced at the Fair. Many of the chiefs of the different departments of the Exposition have published for the benefit of all, the progress being made in their work, and the official rules governing exhibits. In all, this issue is a marvel of beauty, and on its pages may be found all information regarding the coming great Exposition. The entire issues will form an invaluable Encyclopedia of the great event to be handed down to generations. Sample copy 25 cents. J. B. CAMPBELL,

Y. M. C. A. Weekly Bullitin.

The attendance at the Y. M. C. A. rooms for the past week has been 1240 a daily 191 the attendance was greater for the past week than for any month of the past year.

The Sunday meetings are being well attended, growing in interest and popular favor each week. The one for the coming Sunday promises to be the best held yet. The young men of the city cannot afford to miss these meetings.

The association has the finest line of dialy and weekly papers out side of the large city Associations and better even than some of them. The following are the dailies we have on file:

Daily News, Bellefonte; Daily Gazette, Bellefonte; Morning Tribune, Altoona; Pittsburg Dispatch, Pittsburg; Phil. Record, Philadelphia; The Press, Philadelphia; The Times, Philadelphia: The Evening Star, Philadelphia; The Phil. Inquirer, Philadelphia; The World, New York; The New York Herald, New York; The New York Tribune, New York; The Mail and Express, New York; The Press, New York.

Beside the papers the Association has a very large game room, which is in constant use. As there is only one Crockinole board (which is always in use) the young men who visit to play have to wait their turn. The Association would be very thankful for another board.

A Bold Robbery.

Some unknown person entered the residence of Mr. S. C. Martz, 324 Chestnut avenue, during Thursday night, and secured some $27 in money belonging to Mr. M., and which, with other papers, was in a coat hanging in the kitchen. How the thief got in the house is not known, unless it was early in the evening, and after secreting himself, waited until all had retired and then went through the coat. The kitchen door had been locked on Thursday evening, but was found open by Mr. Martz yesterday morning. Nothing but the money was taken.—Altoona Tribune.

Many Men Frozen.

ST JOHNS, N. F., Februury 29.—On Saturday 200 men, seal hunting, were driven off shore by a fierce breeze. To-day twenty four landed at Hearts Delight, exhausted and frozen, and seven landed at Shoal Harbor frostbitten, but will recover. The latest report is that ten of the men were found frozen to death. Thirteen of them are still missing. Intense excitement prevails throughout the country.

THAT DESERT LAKE.

From Present Indications it Will be Larger This Year.

SALTON, Cal., Feb. 26.—From present indications the Desert Lake here will be much larger this year. At present the lake is about half a mile wide, and after running along the Southern Pacific track for about two miles, extends off out of sight to the south.

At this time last year there was not a drop of water visible, although there was a quantity a few inches below the surface of the sink. It was not until several months later that the floods occurred in the Gila and Colorado rivers, caused by the melting snow, and only in August that the water in Salton sink began to attract attention.

The snow in the mountains at present are heavier than for years, and coming, as the waters will when they melt on the land already in a large part saturated, a lake of unequaled extent will probably be created. Old residents believe that about 100 miles of the track of the Southern Pacific, which lies in the desert below sea level, will be overflowed.

Russell Will Go to Chicago.

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—It is positively stated that Governor Russell will go the Chicago convention, not as a delegate at large, but as a guest of the entire state delegation. Chairman Corcoran, of the Democratic State Committee, is quoted as saying: "The situation now points to a candidate aside from the two who have been talked about, and the possibilities of W. E. Russell are growing all the time. At Chicago the governor will come in contact with public men, and he has a way of making himself felt and appreciated under such circumstances. Even if he is not given a place on the ticket, it will tend to broaden him out and give him a national reputation which will be very much for his credit in the future.

A Bloody Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, February 27.—Four drunken men named Michael Walsh, Pat Hanley, Thomas Leonard and John Coyle, engaged in a fight this morning and a bloody scene followed. Hanley drew a revolver saying he was going to shoot Walsh. Quick as a flash Walsh drew a razor and slashed Hanley's throat almost severing the head from the body. Walsh immediately closed with Coyle and Leonard again using his bloody weapon with similar effect upon Coyle's throat. The remaining men were covered with blood from head to foot. Walsh and Leonard were arrested.

A Bad Citizen Locked Up.

READING, February 27—A Phoenixville special this morning says: Shortly before 12 o'clock last night while going through the Pheonix iron works, the head watchman, Dennis Kelly, accused the sub-watchman, John Hughes, of neglect of duty. This angered Hughes and he fired at Kelly, but the bullet missed its mark and hit Chief of Police Moore, who was in the mill, in the arm, painfully wounding him. Officer Carter was then sent to arrest Hughes, when the latter shot Carter in the groin, dangerously and probably fatally wounding him. Hughes is locked up.

Another Grain Blockade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 26.—Another grain blockade is on in Kansas City. The Burlington has given notice that it cannot receive any more grain. It is impossible to tell how long the blockade will last, but the Burlington people do not expect to get clear for a week at least. So far as known the other roads are not in any danger of being blockaded, and say they will be able to keep open.

Death of a Lebanon Woman.

LEBANON, Pa., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Mary Doebler died at her residence in this city on the 24th after a lingering illness. About two years ago she was attacked one night in her house by burglars and stabbed in several places. She suffered from her injuries until her death. The perpetrators of the outrage have never been discovered.

Harrison Starts on His Trip.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The President and his party left Washington at 10.57 o'clock this morning, in a special car of the Atlantic coast line for Virginia Beach, Va. Among those who conferred with him before his departure were Secretary Blaine, Senator Sherman and Secretary Rusk.

Deaths From a Dreadful Disease.

RENOVA, Feb. 26.—There a number of cases of "black tongue" near Oleona. Harry Olson and two members of Charles Clookey's family died last week, and three others of the family are sick with the disease. Daniel Sechrist, an employe of Arthur Fish, also died of the disease.

Ice Gorge at Queen's Run.

The Lock Haven Express of yesteaday stated that there is a small ice gorge at Queen's Run, four miles above that city, and that considerable water is accumulating behind the jam. The ice is expected to pass off on the present flood, but no fear is entertained that it will do any damage. The ice in the dam at Lock Haven has not yet moved out.

Funeral Notice.

—The remains of Miss Mary Musser the account of whose sad death was given in yesterday's paper, arrived on the 8.54 train yesterday evening and conveyed to the residence of her father on Reynold's Avenue, from where the funeral will take place Sunday after noon at two o'clock.

Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 1127 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

The free coinage question is at the present time, bothering the democratic managers badly, and at the same time is cutting considerable of a figure in the ranks of the republican party. Were it not for partisan politics the matter could be easily managed. Unquestionably a great majority of the rank and file of both parties, favor bimetalism and would favor placing gold and silver on the same basis that one should have no advantage over the other.

The monometalists favor free coinage for gold and oppose it for silver. The proof that silver coinage is not in fact a political issue, is furnished by the fact, that both democrats and republicans oppose it in the east and favor it in the west. Just as the sectional interests prevail.

The East being old and wealthy monometalism rules there. They are opposed not only to free coinage but to silver money in any form, money scarce, and high rates of interest suits them.

In the west, the exact reverse is called for, money plenty and low interest is demanded. The East has money to loan, the West has to borrow, but laying aside all sectionalism and the rank and file of both parties need more money, not cheap money, but good money, worth one hundred cents to the dollar.

If the politicians had the interests of the people at heart, they could easily arrange this coinage question Silver is an American product and ought to have an equal chance with, but no advantage over, any other American product.

There should be no legislation that would give silver producers, 100 cents for 70 cents worth of silver still they should have an equal chance with the gold producers Our mints give one dollar for 100 cents worth of gold and they should give one dollarfor 100 cents worth of silver, and the wheat, corn, cotton, beef, pork etc., producers should receive for their produets a dollar worth 100 cents and the laborer, no matter what he works at, mining gold, silver, iron lead or coal, in the mill or factory on the farm, in the forest, on land or sea, should also receive for his labor. an honest dollar worth 100 cents. In short all dollars, gold, silver and paper should be of equal value.

Were it not, that politicians in both parties, want to make all the issues possible for the purpose of antagonizing each other, the people not Interested in politics, would soon solve the question. Could the question be eliminated from this partisan politics, our legislators could and would soon devise a plan or scale by which all our money could be made, and kept on a parity. We ought not to bother about any World's monetary congress to settle the value of metals We are the greatest producing nation on the globe, and should dictate, and not allow ourselves to be dictated to by any other country. Simply congress should require enough silver put into the silver dollar to make it equal to the gold one, and then make all paper money, bonds and other evidences of National indebtedness, payable in either coin, and all would be legal tender, and peace will follow.

THE BLAINE TROUBLE.

After almost three years of silence James G. Blaine, the most renowned and honored statesman, opens his mouth and comes before the public with a very long letter in explanation of what has always been judged the dastardly conduct of his son, James G Blaine, Jr., in deserting his young and pretty wife and his little baby son, allowing them to be thrown out on a cold and uncharitable world. And now, after Mr Blaine's lengthy explanation has been carefully read and digested by a thinking public, it will wonder why the eminent Statesman has allowed himself to be drawn into a controversey that in the end cannot help but reflect on his own family far more than on the little defenceless woman who is striving her best to make a living for herself and her husband's child.

No amount of explanation can explain away the fact that young Blaine married Miss Nevins; and, having married her, there is no law or excuse possible to give that would justify him in deserting her so long as she was faithful to him, and this fact has never been gainsayed. Therefore, would it not now have been better for the Hon. James G. Blaine still to have maintained that silence which for the past three years in this case has been so golden? Yea verily.

DESPOTISMS.

The Emperor of Germany, judging by his Bradenburg speech, is trying to ape the Czar of Russia. All kings claim that they rule by Divine right. Deity being absolute in power and authority, they assert that they as His representatives, are absolute. That the ruler is in possession of all authority and rights, and the subjects are entitled to no rights, excepting such as the king sees fit to confer upon them. The king's province is to command, and the subject is bound to obey. Russia for a long time has held place as the only so-called, Christian country in which absolute power is vested in the monarch. Long continued despotism has made the Russian peasants comparatively docile and easily controlled, and the Czar had but little trouble with them. Siberia and the knout were sufficient to subdue or dispose of the few who questioned his right of authority. But since the present czar's father manumitted the peasants they are not so tractable.

Nihilism now keeps the Russian Emperor and his nobles busy. Bullet-proof coaches and cars and bomb-proof castles or palaces are necessary to preserve the lives of the ruler by Divine right and his satellites. The condition of potentate and people in Russia would not by most people be considered as enviable. Nevertheless, Kaiser William seems inclined to try his hand at imitating the czar, and takes a bold stand on the Divine, kingly rights. He starts out by attempting to re-establish the religion that the "old man of blood and iron"—Bismarck, had so much trouble to overthrow as the religion of the State. It looks as though William had reckoned without his host.

The liberty-loving Germans will not meekly submit to the Imperial yoke. They propose to think and act for themselves. Socialism is rampant throughout his empire. The conservatives are becoming dissatisfied, and possibly the youthful kaiser may undermine his tottering throne, and Europe may have another republic, with Bismarck at its head.

The Germans to-day are more capable of self-government than any other European nation, Switzerland alone excepted. If mercurial France can exist and succeed under a republican form of government, there can be no doubt that staid and stolid Germany can do the same. A German Republic would mean in the near future a Republican Europe. Kaiser William is now laying its foundation.

GRANTING OF LICENSES.

To-day is the day on which the applications for the granting of wholesale and retail liquor licenses in Centre county were given a hearing in a special session of court held for that purpose. During the last year there have been twenty licensed houses in Centre Co. This year there are thirty-two applications filed, and there is a certainty that some of the applicants will be denied, while there is a probability that more will be granted this year than last.

In all righteousness and fairness it would seem that as long as licenses must be granted, in every case where the applicant has conformed with the spirit of the law and can give a good and satisfactory reason why his house should be licensed, his application should be given just consideration, and if found as represented, a license should be granted him. Of course, it is nothing to us one way or the other, but it seems only a reasonable assertion that all persons should be treated the same, and there is no doubt in our mind but that the Honorable Court will render its decision in a just and equitable manner, and that all those who have made application will receive just treatment according to the merits of their hearing.

Road Improvement.

The importance of the wheel as a factor in civilizedl ife has been well epitomized in the following extract: "Do you know that the wheel is the connecting link between barbarism and civilization, poverty and wealth; that by it the world moves, and upon it all great work depends? Do you know that the horse which staggers with 500 pounds on his back trots off easily with 2,000 pounds loaded on wheels? Do you know that if you were chained to 500 pounds of iron in the form of a cube you would die if bread was but one-eighth of a mile off?—that in a cask you could roll 2,000 pounds around the earth? Do you know that every time you lift your weight (say 100 pounds) one inch, which, added up, makes a lot at the end of a day?—that on a bicycle you can go farther, faster, and easier in the same time? Take the wheel from the locomotive, and one-half the world's industry would die. Remove it from the car, carriage, and factory, and the wealth of the world would dwindle nine-tenths. You would hear of no Goulds, no Astors, no Vanderbilts. Wall Street would go down a tradition to future generations."

Like many other important facts, the above is very well known and is very imperfectly realized. But the wheel without a proper surface to roll upon is badly discounted. The railroad only attains its speed by having a smooth steel bed for its wheels to roll over. On a less perfect surface the speed of the slowest train would be unendurable for the passengers. The locomotive, that seems instinct with self-contained life, becomes the most helpless of organisms when its wheels leave the rails or when snow accumulates little by little on the track.

The road question is now one of the great issues of the day. Of all civilized countries the United States probably holds the palm for bad roads. The annual messages of governors of States have taken cognizance for the need of better roads; the roads of a district have been made a subject for indictment by a grand jury. In the daily papers we read of a mud blockade, when farmers were confined to their houses because the roads were impassable. Their produce was locked up, money became scarce, the local merchants snffered in their business, so that a local financial crisis was the effect of bad roads. We read that a farmer in Pennsylvania, last spring, while using a six-horse team to haul a single load of hay, had one of his horses all in the road and drowned before he could be got out. The question, "How are the roads?" so frequently put in country places tells a whole story of the dependence of farmers on roads for their prosperity, comfort, and even for social recreation and enlightenment. Without practicable transit, there can be no support for family gatherings, lectures or lyceums, and the very schooling of the children of the country depends on the same thing—good roads.

AND now Executive Commissioner Whitman has been compelled to resign, because of ill health, from his position at the head of the World's Fair Committee. Thus far the Commission has been singularly unfortunate in regard to its executive head. Wolfe the first man died on the day of his election, and now his successor is compelled to follow suit owing to his shattered health.

CONGRESS taking over two months to begin work recalls the Dutchman who ran two miles in order to get a good start to jump a six-foot ditch.—Philadelphia Times. And, by the way, would just call to our esteemed contemporary's mind the fact that this is a good, old-fashioned Democratic Congress, too.

THE forty-fifth annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company just issued, shows a decidedly healthful state of business. While the earnings of the road have not at any time been away above par neither have they been dull at any time, and now the prospects are for a good trade in general traffic, both freight and passenger.

CONGRESS SLOWLY MOVING.

THE SENATE DID VERY LITTLE WORTHY OF NOTE YESTERDAY.

The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill Was the Bone of Contention and Ex-Speaker Reed Scored Several Points in the Debate.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Mr. Dolph, in presenting petitions in the senate to-day from his state favoring government aid for the Nicaragua canal, said he regarded it as the most important public question that is now or has been in the last quarter of a century before congress and before the American people. He was not sanguine as to the ability of the canal company to secure the construction and completion of the canal, and he wished to see the United States at the head of the matter, first because he desired to have the canal speedily constructed; second, because he desired that when constructed it should be under the control of the United States, and third because he desired the canal to be capitalized only at the actual cost. The appropriation committee reported a bill appropriating $3,000 for the expenses of the typhus fever and immigration investigating committee.

The Idaho election case was taken up and Mr. George stated the reasons which would control his own action in casting his vote for the contestant. After he ended a three-and-a-half-hour speech by saying that in the highest court of the land deciding a question of the highest privilege for states and individuals, it was not too much to assume that every member of the body would look at the question fairly and impartially and would give that verdict which his conscience told him was in accord with the law and the facts, Mr. Vilas summed up the reason which would influence his judgment as one of the court sitting to determine the pending contest. Mr. Teller, who was to close the debate on the part of the majority of the committee, said he did not care to weary the senat any further and moved to proceed to vote on the resolution, but on the suggestion of Mr. Gray that some senators were absent who missed to record their votes on the question, it was finally arranged that the vote should be take at 3 o'clock to-morrow. After a short executive session the senate at 5.30 adjourned until to-morrow.

IN THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In the house to-day the committee on judiciary reported a bill defining the crime of murder in the first and second degrees; house calendar.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, and Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, made a brief explanation as to the reductions of the appropriations proposed. He said that the commissioners of the District of Columbia estimated $5,717,855 as the amount which should be appropriated for the District during the next fiscal year. This estimate the secretary of the treasury reduced to $5,702,125. The bill reported to-day from the committee on appropriations carries but $4.997,555. Mr. Dockery suggested that if the secretary could without examination cut off $700,000, it might be proper for the committee to cut off $500,000.

Mr. Henderson—On that principle the gentleman might wipe out the bill entirely.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, addressing Mr. Dockery, propounded the query: "If you can wipe out $790,000 in seven weeks how long will it take to wipe it out entirely. It seems a questions of time."

Mr. Dockery—It would take me a good while to answer that question if I were confronted at every step by the able gentleman from Maine and the gentleman from Iowa.

Mr. Otes, of Kansas, offered an amendment providing that all the expenses of the district shall be borne by the inhabitants thereof. Ruled out of order. Withdisposing of the bill the committee rose and the house adjourned.

The Governor Writes a Letter.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—A Press special from Hazleton says the Governor sent the following reply to a communication from Matthew Long, of this city, protesting against the Reading deal:

HARRISBURG, March 1.—To Matthew Long—My dear sir: Your letter of February 29, with clippings inclosed, has been received and contents noted. All the authority of the State will be exerted for the enforcement of the constitution. Article 7 relating to railroad and canal companies at every provision of the fundamental law. It commands nothing but what is right, and forbids nothing but what is wrong. The law department of the State will contend vigorously for its execution. Section 12 of the same article provides: "The general assembly shall enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article." Action by the legislature providing for penalties of imprisonment and fines would prove a much speedier remedy than the one now offered.

Very respectfully,

ROBERT E. PATTISON.

A number of prominent citizens bearing the petitions will leave here on the early train to-morrow for Harrisburg, to be present at the hearing.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

Flagman Fostile Shoots Fireman Nyland Through the Heart.

A special to the Johnstown Tribune from Rockwood, Somerset county, under date of March 2, says,

"At Yoder Station, seven miles east of this station, this morning at half-past 12 o'clock, Elmer Fostile, a flagman on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, shot William Nyland, a fireman, through the heart, killing him instantly. The affair happened on locomotive No. 478, while it was in motion. James Dougherty, the engineer; William Nyland, the fireman, and Elmer Fostile, the flagman, were on board the engine, which is a pusher from Connellsville to Sand Patch. Nyland had been 'codding' Fostile about something whereupon Fostile whipped out a revolver and fired at him. The ball entered his left side and struck his heart. He threw up his hands, ejaculated, 'Get a doctor, quick!" and sank into a limber heap, dead.

"The engine was stopped, but Fostile made no attempt to escape, willingly placing himself in the hands of an officer, who subsequently took him to Somerset and lodged him in jail. The body of Nyland was taken to Rockwood, where it was detained for an inquest. The inquest was held this afternoon and was still in progress at half past three o'clock.

"Nyland, the victim of this affair, was about 25 years of age. His home was in Connellsville. He had been on the railroad for several years, and had made several trips on the Somerset and Cambria to Johnstown and on other branch roads. He was a heavy set man with a rather disagreeable expression of face. Fostile, the man who did the shooting, was a new hand on the road. this morning's trip being his first. The revolver with which he did the shooting was a new one, and the bullet that killed Nyland was the first that was ever fired from the weapon.

"Fostile says that Nyland annoyed him and made fun of him all the way from Connellsville to Yoder. At the moment of the tragedy he ordered him to pull down some coal with a pick. This Mr. Fostile refused to do, whereupon Nyland raised the pick as if to strike the flagman. Fostile quickly whipped out his revolver and fired. Engineer Dougherty, being the only person who saw the affair, becomes an important factor in the case, and upon his testimony the fate of Fostile depends."

LAMAR, Mo., March 2.—The jury in the Avery case after five days trial returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree as charged in the indictment. Avery killed James N. Miller, near Liberal, Mo., on September 22, 1891.

A DEAD SHOT

right at the seat of difficulty, is accomplished by the sure and steady aim of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Don't fool around with a pop-gun, nor a "Flint-lock," when this reliable "Winchester" is within reach!

Dr. Sage's treatment of Catarrh in the Head is far superior to the ordinary, and when directions are reasonably well followed, results in a permanent cure. Don't longer be indifferent to the verified claims of this unfailing Remedy.

The worst forms of Catarrh disappear with the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties effect a perfect and permanent cure, no matter how bad the case, or of how long standing. It's a remedy that succeeds where everything else has failed. Thousands of such cases can be pointed out. That's the reason its makers back their faith in it with money. They offer $500 reward for a case of Catarrh which they cannot cure.

It's a medicine that allows them to take such a risk.

Doesn't common sense lead you to take such a medicine?

"An advertising fake" you say.

Funny, isn't it, how some people prefer sickness to health when the remedy is positive and the guarantee absolute.

Wise men don't put money back of "fakes." And "faking" doesn't pay.

DISCOURAGED!

No Woman Will Be on Reading This.

A lady who for years had suffered from nervous weakness, malaria, headache, back ache, excessive nervousness, and who complained of feeling tired all the time, disheartened at repeated failures to find relief exclaimed:

"I am discouraged, and suppose I must drag out the rest of my life feeling wretched and miserable."

A sympathizing friend encouraged her with words of hope. "There is one thing you have not yet used—the great nerve and health restorative, Dr. Greene's Nervura. This wonderful discovery cured me, and I am sure it will cure you."

There are thousands of women who need the same encouragement, especially in the Spring, when all physical and nervous ills are aggravated, and if they will use this remarkable female invigorator, it will certainly restore health, strength and vigor. Purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists $1.

"I deem it my duty to say that I think Dr. Greene's Nervura the best medicine in the world. My kidneys were in a terrible state I had awful pains in the back and side, and could not sleep at night. My headache was a source of great annoyance and I suffered much at certain periods. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Greene's Nervura for it cured me of my terrible complaints. Why, I felt so miserable that I often thought I would take my own life. I thank God for directing me to Dr. Greene's Nervura.

THE DYNAMITERS BLUNDERED.

They Intended to Destroy the Spanish Embassy in Paris.

PARIS, March 1.—The attempt, yesterday morning, to blow up the residence of the Princess de Sagan promises to be a nine-days' wonder. Nobody can conceive why the princess should be attacked in this manner. She is one of the most popular members of Parisian society, and is a favorite with the populace on account of her liberal dealings and expenditures and the amiability of her disposition. That the most ruthless of nihilists should attempt to destroy her dwelling would seem to be an act of incredible irony.

It now appears that the dynamitersmade a blunder. The Spanish embassy was formerly located in a neighboring building, and the sympathizers here with the Spanish anarchists, who placed the dynamite did not know that the embassy had been removed. A letter was received at the building formerly occupied by the embassy signed by a committee of Spanish and French anarchists, making certain demands and threatening, if they were not complied with, to blow the building up.

The letter was handed to the police by the occupants of the house, and nothing more was heard of it.

It is believed that the instruments of the committee, in their blundering efforts to carry out their intention, were not only ignorant of the removal of the embassy, but mistook the house it once occupied and, regardless of consequences to the innocent, deposited their explosives in the doorway of Sagan mansion.

A SWITCHMAN'S FAULT.

HIS FORGETFULNESS TO TURN A LEVER CAUSES AN ACCIDENT.

They Were Employes of the West Milwaukee Shops and Their Bodies Were Terribl Mangled. The Remains Taken to the Morgue.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 1.—The Watertown local train, due here at 4 o'clock this afternoon, ran into and demolished the rear end of a train loaded with employes of the West Milwaukee shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, killing seven and injurin several others.

The trains were moving in the same direction, the workmen's train having just left the main track and strung itself out on a track parallel with the main line. The switchman failed to turn the switch after the workmen's train, and the local a moment after passed on the short switch and in a minute had telescoped the rear car. The seven men killed were terribly mangled.

The engineer of the local reversed his engine, but not soon enough to avoid the terrible disaster. He has disappeared and officers are after him. His friends say he will give himself up late to-night. The men killed were mechanics living in the city. The bodies were taken to the morgue and the work of identification is in progress. The engine and baggage car of the local and four cars of the workmen's train were derailed, but none of the local's passengers were injured.

WANT HEAVY DAMAGES.

A Railroad Company Charged with Neglect—Killed on the Road.

Mrs. Katie Grazier and Mrs. Annie VanScoyoc, both residents of Bellwood, have entered suit against the Pennsylvania & Northern Railroad for heavy damages.

On the night of June 11, 1891, a freight train on this road was traveling on the mountain some distance below Lloydsville when it parted, and a section getting beyond control of the trainmen started down the mountain at a high rate of speed, finally leaving the track and wrecking an engine and a number of cars. When the debris had been cleared away Fireman Williard Grazier and Conductor Stephen VanScoyoc, the respective husbands of the prosecutors, were found dead.

The case was yesterday heard in Alexander's building association rooms before Arbitrators John O'Toole, W. B. Blake and J. N. Shillito, Shaw & Graffius being present in the interests of the prosecution, while J. D. Hicks, Esq. represented the defense. A number of witnesses were examined and an adjournment was finally made until Friday.—Altoona Times.

No Guns Allowed in Court.

ARKALON Kan., March 1.—The district court convened again yesterday, pursuant to adjournment, to try the Sheriff Dunn murder cases. The attorneys in the cases have already selected S. W. Vandervort, of the Sixteenth Judicial district to preside as special Judge in Judge Bodkin's place. The inton case was the first one on the docket, and the work of procuring a jury was begun.

It looks as if it will be an easy matter to secure a jury, although that work had not been completed when court adjourned to-day. There is considerable excitement over the trial, but no trouble has occurred Everyone who enters the court is obliged to leave his weapons outside in the hands of a deputy sheriff.

Severe Wind Storm at Reading.

READING, March 1.—One of the most violent wind storms, accompanied by rain, snow, and hail, for several years passed over the city after midnight, lasting two hours. The gale blew a perfect hurricane, and damage was done all over the city and surrounding country. Limbs of trees were twisted off, shedding and other buildings blown down or unroofed, and houses shaken, frightening the inmates. An unknown man perished in the storm five miles below Reading.

An Important Witness Turns up.

PITTSBURGH, March 1.—C. H. Pettit, of Chicago, arrived in Pittsburg last night, having just returned from London. He is badly wanted in Philadelphia as a witness in an important land suit in the United States courts, involving English parties, who were connected with a huge irrigation scheme. For some days telegrams have been pouring into this city making inquiries for Mr. Pettit. The police authorties notified the Philadelphia people, stating that they had been unable to reach their man and asking if he were in Pittsburh. He turned up unexpectedly however, and now announces his readiness to go east. When asked for particulars of the suit in question he grew reticent and refused to give any information.

Railroad in the Holy Land.

The first railway to Jerusalem will, it is reported, be opened in the spring of the coming year. It is a short line, running only from Joppa, the nearest port on the Mediterranean, and intended to accommodate the growing passenger and other traffic between that place and the Holy City. The work of construction is being carried out by a French company, who began laying down the line in April, 1890.

It is stated that over 800 vessels of various kinds annually land 40,000 persons at Joppa whose destination is Jerusalem, for twenty francs.

A Word About Catarrh.

It is the mucus membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals and renders life a longdrawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insiduously by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membraneous lining and envelopes the bones, eating the delicate coats and causing inflamation, slaughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient and all lleviates are simply procrastinated sufferings leading to a fatal termination. Dr. Salm has by a treatment local and constitutional, made the cure of this dread disease a certainty, and has never ailed. Even when the disease had made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered and the disease thoroughly driven out.

Chronic Diseases

The Doctors treat no acute diseases but make an entire specialty of chronic and long standing diseases. Brooms to be Made Here.

The theory that the best way to bring a new industry to Tyrone is to establish one backed by our own citizens has been accepted as the sound one by some of our energetic members of the board of trade, and the preliminary steps are being taken to carry out the idea. It is proposed that a company, to be known as the Tyrone Manufacturing and Supply Co., or by some other name equally comprehensive, be organized for the manufacture and marketing of various staples. The plan is to start, on capital of about $5000, in the manufacture of brooms.

G. C. Davidson and C. B. Bowles have taken active interest in the undertaking and have made careful inquiry into the business. Acting on the strength of information gained, which all points to the success of such a venture, subscriptions for stock in the new company have been solicited and the amount required will be obtained with little difficulty. Already about $2500 of stock has been taken, and it is the expectation of the projectors that the company will have a gradual growth, extending the number of commodities handled as rapidly as the business will justify and opportunities be presented.—Tyrone Herald.

REV. DUCEY CENSURED.

HE IS BLAMED BY ARCBISHOP CORRIGAN.

The Secretary's Letter Considered a Perfect Defense—Effect of the Rather Sharp Letter to the New York Priest.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Through his Private Secretary, Mgr. McDonnell, Archbishop Corrigan yesterday morning expressed his views in the matter of the marriage of James G. Blaine, Jr., to Miss Nevins.

"With regard to Mr. Blaine's defense of his wife and family," said Father McDonnell, "the Archbishop has nothing to do. When Father Ducay, however, attempts to throw upon him the responsibility for any error of judgement that may have been made in marrying these two persons his action is somewhat surprising.

"The Archbishop's position in the matter is simply this: Father Ducey brought the young people with him to the former's house, the evening that they came to New York.

WOULDN'T LISTEN TO REASON.

"He said that he desired a special dispensation to marry them. when the Archbishop learned who the parties were he had a long talk with them, and endeavored to dissuade them from taking the step without the knowledge of young Blaine's parents.

"The young man, however, seemed to be determined to be married at once and the young woman was equally stubborn. They would listen to no advice, and said that if they could not get a dispensation so that Father Ducey could marry them they would go to some Protestant clergy man who would perform the ceremony."

HE WROTE THE ARCHBISHOP.

"A copy of Mr. Blaine's letter was received by the archbishop at the same time it was sent to Father Ducey. The Archbishop sent for Father Ducey and requested him to make some reply at once to the charges it contained.

"This Father Ducey refused to do, saying that he would take his own time and answer it in his own way. The Archbishop told him that as a mere matter of courtesy it demanded an immediate reply. Whether Father Ducey ever answered the note or not the Archbishop does not know.

CORRIGAN NOT TO BLAME.

"Mr Blaine afterwards wrote to the Archbishop thanking him for what he had done and said in his efforts to prevent the marriage, and declaring that he was satisfied that he had done what he could.

"If there are any differences between Father Ducey and Mr. Blaine they should be settled without bringing the Archbishop into the controversy. It is very remarkable conduct on the part of Father Ducey to beat about the bush and try to shift a responsibility, if there is one, from his own shoulders to those of the Archbishop."

As Viewed from Pittsburgh.

PITTSBUGH, Pa., March 1.—The heaviest snow storm of the city visited the western and central portions of the state this morning. The storm came directly from the east and was carried along so swiftly by the strong wind prevailing at the time that the snow fell to a depth of two or three feet in a few hours. At Altoona the snow at 8 o'clock this morning had reached a depth of twenty-five inches and was still falling very rapidly. An hour later twenty-eight inches of snow was reported at Gallitzin, in the Alleghenies and a heavy storm prevailing. Telegraphic communication with this city from eastern points was badly demoralized. In many places not only the wires but also the poles were torn down by the force of the storm. All over the western end of the state the storm is reported to have done considerable damage to either railroad or telegraphic service. All trains from the east were from one to six hours late, four engines being required to haul the western express over the mountains. Snow plows were run ahead of all trains and 500 men were sent out from Altoona to clear the tracks.

Struck by an Engine and Killed.

GLASGOW, Pa., March 1.—A man was instantly killed yesterday afternoon at Mountaindale. Jabob Nelman, a miner of Mountaindale, while walking on the track of the P. and N. W. railroad, was struck by engine No. 32, hauling freight northward, and instantly killed. His body was not mutilated but his head was crushed. A new schedule changing the running of the trains was the cause of his taking the wrong track. He was a man of middle age and unmarried, and has no relatives at Mountaindale. He was a most devoted Christian and a man of many excellent qualities, was a member of the orders of Knights of the Golden Eagle, Patriotic Orders Sons of America and Grand Army of the Republic, and belonged to the Methodist Episcopal church.

IN THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

The Claggett Election Case Among the Things Up for Discussion.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—In the Senate to-day among the bills reported from the committees and placed on the calendar were the following: House bill, with amendments, for the better control of and to promote the safety of national banks. The several bills introduced by Senators George, Harrls and Vance to repeal the internal revenue tax on the circulation of state bank notes were reported back adversely from the committee on finance and were placed on the calendar. An amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill appropriating $200,000 for the distribution of the mails in the rural districts was reported from the postoffice committee and referred to the committee on appropriations. Mr. Morgan offered a resolution, which was laid on the table for the present, looking to the establishment of an Indian military school west of the Mississippi river.

The Idaho election case was taken up and Mr. Sanders addressed the senate in defence of Mr. Claggett's right to the seat. Mr. Morgan made a legal and constitutional argument against the right of Mr. Dubois to occupy a seat in the senate. Mr. George said he had a conference with Mr. Teller who was to close the debate and it had been agreed that if he, Mr. George, were too unwell to speak to-morrow he would forego his right altogether. Mr. Teller confirmed that statement and remarked that he would not speak at much length. The Senate then at 4.20 adjourned till to-morrow.

After routine business to-day the house went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill. Mr. Peal, of Aark., offered an amendment providing that all Indian children who have attended or shall hereafter attend school for seven years, in whole or in part, at the expense of the government, are hereby declared to be citizens of the United States and shall not thereafter receive aid from the government in the way of a gratuity, provided that they shall not thereby lose any property right in any trival property. The admendment was agreed to. The committee then recurred to the Mansure amendment striking out the annual allowance of Captain Pratt, of the Carlisle school. Mr. Wilson, of Washington, sent to the clerk's desk and had read a telegram from Captain Pratt, saying that he had been incorrectly reported. What he had said was that the Catholics got more than double as much of the Indian school appropriations as all other denominations combined; that they maintained a powerful lobby in Washington, and manipulated politics to accomplish their purposes. These, said Captain Pratt, were general statements having no bearing whatever on the individual members of congress, much less on Mr. Mansure in whose general views I concur.

Mr. Pendleton, of West Virginia, said he did not think that any may who was a bigot on religion was a proper man to be at the head of any school maintained by the government of the United States. Even if Captain Pratt did not attack members of congress his mind was so wrapped in favor of religious bigotry that he ought not to be at the head of the Carlisle school. After further severe criticisms, the motion to strike out Captain Pratt's annual allowance of $1,000 was agreed to—93 to 57—and the committee rose and reported the bill to the house. The previous question having deen ordered, Mr. Pickler, of South Dakota, demanded a separate vote on the amendment providing that when vacancies shall hereafter occur in Indian agencies they shall be filled by some officers detailed for the duty by the president. The amendment was adopted. The bill was then passed.

Mr. McMillen, of Tennessee, from the committee on ways and means, reported the free wool bill which was referred to the committee of the whole, together with the views of the minority presented by Mr. Burrows, of Michigan Mr. McMillin stated that it had been the intention of the committee to call this bill up for consideration during the latter part of the week, but that, owing to the illness of Chairman Springer, he would not call it up until Tuesday next. Mr. Bryan, of Nebraska, and Mr. Turner, of Georgia, respectively, from the same committee, reported bills for the free entry of binding twine and cotton bagging and ties, which were referred to the committee of the whole, and leave was granted to Mr. Payne, of New York, and Mr. Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, to present the views of the minority on these measures.

NINE-YEAR OLD MAUD APGER RESCUED BY HER MOTHER.

And Finally Discovered a Few Miles From Her Home Where She was Made to do Menial Service. How the Rescue was Finally Effected.

EASTON, Pa., February 25.—Three years ago Mrs. Alice Apger was compelled to leave her husband, Lewis Apger, while they were residing at Plainfield, on account of ill-treatment and neglect. She came back to her father's house in Phillipsburg, N. J., and brought her child Maud with her, and ever since then Mr. James Wilkins, her father, has cared for and supported them. He was unusually devoted to the grandchild. The father of the child oftentimes visited and was always privileged to see her. On the 10th of last September little Maud, who was attending the Sunnyside school, in Union square, failed to return home. The mother entertained the belief that the child had gone to Easton to spend the night with a friend, but an investigation revealed the fact that she had been kidnapped and carried away by her father. The mother and grandfather made many fruitless attempts to recover the girl and several times nearly succeeded, but not until Wednesday were their efforts entirely successful. They learned that the child was in the custody of an old couple named Caddington, near Millington, N. J. The mother and an officer from this place took a carriage and drove to the home of the Caddingtons, and as they drew near saw the child at the window. She suddenly disappeared and when they entered the house was nowhere to be found. The old lady, who had the keeping of the child, refused to divulge where she was, but the mother, undaunted by the threats of the old lad, went through the house. She could hear the cries of her child, but it was some time before she could be located and when found she was in a small, dark room seated on a bag of dried apples, crying for her mother, a glimpse of whom she had obtained from the window. The mother seized her half clad child in her arms, rushed to the carriage and was then driven to Bound Brook, where the train was taken for home. The house where the child had been kept was about seven miles from Millington and the nearest house is about half a mile distant.

The child is 9 years old. There is much rejoicing in Phillipsburg by the friends of the little one at her safe return.

The Quay-Post Libel Suit.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 25.—The Post Publishing Company, Albert J. Barr, president, and James Mills, editor, defendants in the Quay libel suit, were refused a new trial this morning and sentence was imposed.

The defendant company was fined $300, and Messrs. Barr and Mills $50 and costs each. In imposing sentence Judge Porter said: "The cause of this trouble was pure neglect. I do not think there was any malice toward Senator Quay personally in the publication. It occurred in the midst of a heated political canvass. During such times all the newspapers of all political parties show just such neglect as resulted in this libel suit. The Post is not responsible for this pernicious custom any more than any other paper; it merely followed the custom which has been going on for years, and which should be stopped."

Willis F. McCook, attorney for the defendants, said yesterday: "If the sentence is satistactory, we will drop the case. When the defendants will be called up for sentence, or what the sentence will be, I don't know, but it has been suggested to me that nothing more than a mild sentence is wanted."

The news of the sentence was at once telegraphed to Senator Quay by one of his counsel. The sentence of the court seems to give general satisfaction. All the attorneys seemed well satisfied, and although Senator Quay was not in court it is understood that he instructed his attorneys after the verdict to not pursue them did as he did not care to have the defendants humiliated even by an hour's imprisonment. The only remaining case against the defendants is the civil action for $100,000 damages. It will not come up for trial for several months.

Mary Musser Dead.

Last evening Mr. E. K. Rhoads received a dispatch from the hospital at Philadelphia announcing the death there of the little sufferer. Our readers will recollect that on July 30th 1890 Mary, the twelve year old daughter of Mr. Wm. Musser who is employed as driver by Mr. Rhoads was terrible burned while trying to put out a fire started by her brother. The heroic girl never recovered from the burns although everything in their power was done by her parents. Not long since the benevolent people of Bellefonte, headed by the Misses Meek, raised by contribution, sufficient funds to take her to the hospital where it was hoped she could be relieved and possible cured. It seems to have been too late and death has relieved her sufferings. We have not learned where or when the funeral will take place, nor any particulars as to the disposition of the body. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of the community.

RIOTS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Special to THE NEWS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 27.

More than a dozen riots growing out of the complications of the street car strike have occurred since 6 o'clock a m. The strikers and their friends attacking the cars and mobbing the men who had taken their places. At 7 o'clock a. m. they had three cars overturned in the ditch. Mayor Sullivan called out the police to assist in running the cars. The strikers and their sympathizers stubbornly fought the police and did not yield an inch only as forced back. At 8 a. m. the mobs numbered over 1,000 desperate, determined men. Business of all kinds throughout the city was interrupted. Over 50 arrests were made and a dozen cars badly broken up. Fights going on all along the car lines. The mobs are increasing in numbers every moment and the probabilities are that a bloody encounter will ensue. The rioters are many of them, armed and are more than a match for the police.

The governor may be asked to call out the guards or Militia; very serious troubles apprehended by the city officials, as the rioters now probably number 2500 men besides the large crowds of people attracted to the streets by the fights, many of them either openly or secretly sympathising with the strikers.

A HORRIBLE FIGHT.

One of the Contestants Almost Decapitaled.

KNOX, Ind., Feb. 24.—Yesterday a shocking case of butchery and attempted murder took place here. It was the final settlement of an old grudge, a woman being in the case. The participants were John and Alfred Moore, brothers, and Edward Falley. Falley tried to kill Alfred Moore, hitting him on the head with a club. John Moore saw his brother about to be killed, and drawing a dirk, stabbed Falley several times.

At the first stroke he almost decapitated him, but did not sever the jugular vein. It was one of the bloodiest battles ever seen in this region.

Falley is still alive, but in jail. Alfred Moore is confined to his home with congestion of the brain. John Moore is a fugitive, but will probably be apprehended to-day. All the parties concerned are well known

GREAT ALARM IN BERLIN.

Special to THE NEWS.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.

The authorities are greatly alarmed and excited over yesterday's occurences. Troops under arms are held in readiness to suppress and disperse all assemblages of the people. The Socialists are believed to be much stronger than supposed last night. Small bodies of workingmen with red flags paraded Wiesenburg strasse (street), all night, and did much damage stoning buildings and smashing windows. The police were unable to cope with them, and 200 more workingmen with Socialistic flags and banners occupied Landsburg strasse and great disorder prevailed. Reports from other parts of the Empire show the uprising to be general, and the tumult and disorder greater and more serious outside and in other German cities than in Berlin. It looks like a general, preconcerted Socialistic uprising, and will require strong military force to put it down. There are many Socialists in the army, and that fact adds greatly to the alarm of the authorities Merchants and shopkeepers are at the mercy of the mob.

A Silver Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Representative Holman, chairman of the Democratic caucus committee of the house, has issued a call for a caucus of Democratic representatives to be held at 7.30 this evening, at which the silver question and the advisability of pressing the free coinage bill before the general elections will be the subjects of consideration. This call is issued in response to the call circulated by Representative Harter and other opponents of free coinage.

The Jury Could Not Agree.

Special to THE NEWS.

THE GRAND ARMY.

The State Encampment Has Finished Its Work—To Meet Next Year in Lebanon.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., February 26.—The closing day of the Grand Army encampment was a most exciting one. It was to-day that the main work for the election of delegates to the national encampment was done. It was a lively contest, there being 140 candidates and but 45 delegates to elect. The voting began at noon and consumed nearly the entire afternoon session. On account of the long list the result will not be known until late and will be announced at the banquet.

The encampment was late in assembling this morning and then the convention was devoted almost exclusively to the attack upon the board of trustees because of their action in relation to the pensioners and the soldiers homes in Pennsylvania. The board enforced a rule that eighty per cent of the pension money due an inmate of a home be deducted and paid to his dependent relatives, if he has any. If not it is placed in a general fund in the keeping of the board. General Waggoner, president of the board, explained that the reason for the action was that many inmates of the homes if they are supplied with money are apt to get drunk. A comrade from post 400 claimed that the board deducted $10 from his pension money while at the Erie home and did not pay it over to his sister. The encampment by an almost unanimous vote upheld the board of trustees.

The officers who were elected yesterday were then installed and each of them made a short speech.

Following this came the appointment of Samuel P. Town, of Philadelphia, as assistant adjutant general, and Abraham Levering as quartermaster general. There were fifteen members nominated for election to the council of administration, with five to elect: Those chosen were: Henry Fahrer, Norristown; A. A. Pancoast, Philadelphia; Levi S. Shengle. Philadelphia; W. J. Patterson, Pittsburgh, and John B. Maxwell, Fernantown.

Lebanon was then almost unanimously chosen as the place for the next annual encampment and Gettysburg is the place for the summer or semi-annual encampment. The managers of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Erie received a complimentary resolution in reference to their management of that institution. A committee was appointed to report at the next meeting relative to the position Pennsylvania had as to priority in responding to the call for men at the outbreak of the war. The Pennsylvania department claims this state was the first to respond and it is the general feeling that Pennsylvania should have the place of honor in the proposed parade during the coming national encampment at Washington. The encampment then adjourned.

The reception and banquet tendered by the citizens to the Grand Army of the Republic this evening at the old City hall was a fine affair in every sense of the word.

THE JURY DISAGREED.

It Stood Nine for Conviction and Three for Acquittal of George W. Delemater.

MEADVILLE, Pa. Feb. 25.—After wrestling for over thirty-one hours, the jury in the Delamater case notified Judge Hendorson that it was impossible for them to agree on a verdict and accordingly they were discharged at 5 15 p. m. today. Interviews with the jurors disclose that the first ballot stood three for acquittal and nine for conviction, and notwithstanding there were many ballots taken these figures were not changed from first to last Those who have followed the cace closely are not surprised at the result. In fact many predicted after hearing the judge's charge that the verdict would either be acquittal or the jury would fail to come together.

A political analysis of the jury ahows that it was composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans. Two Republicans and one Democratic voted for acquittal and seven Democrats and two Republicans voted for conviction. The case will probably not be pushed further, as the costs of the trial have been very heavy already, and the depositors express the opinion freely that they have lost enough without going to the further expense.

The Great Unwashed.

A New Yorker representing a Republican newspaper of that town was on a visit to a doubtful State in the West and one day he pulled up for dinner at a country hotel. After registering he asked to be shown to the wash room.

"We haven't got none," explained the frouzled-headed boy, acting as clerk.

"Havn't got a wash room?" was the astonished query.

"No, we havn't."

"Well, why in thunder havn't you."

"Cause nobody but Democrats stops at this tavern, and we don't have to."

The New Grange Hall at Zion.

Zion Grange Hall Thursday eve Feb 25. In accordance with the notice Mr. Schofield was present at the meeting and delivered an entertaining and instructive address.

Mr. S. is a native of Belfast Ireland. He came to this country some 25 years ogo, and has but lately returned home from a visit made in his native land. His subject was what he saw and learned while making his trip.

He described his voyage across the Atlantic with 1100 fellow passengers, and gave a description of a burial at sea of a lady passenger who died on board when the vessel was in mid ocean, and spoke of the changes that have taken place in Europe during a quarter of a century.

Spoke of the farmers there being fully posted as to prices of their products, and that market towns were so near each other a farmer can visit several in the course of a day and sell at the one suiting him best. He also told us about the foot races for prizes, in which both ladies and gentlemen competed. He had designed a portion of his lecture for the young people, but as they were conspicuous by their absence, he held that part over for use at some future time when he can get the boys and girls cornered so he can hold them while he talks. Taken as a whole his talk was well worth listening to, and the meeting was enjoyed we think by all present.

SCRIBE.

Christian Endeavor Sociable.

The social at the Chapel last evening was a success. The chapel was filled with youth and beauty, age and wisdom. The exercises were exceedingly interesting. Rev. A. W. Spooner of Altoona spoke about 25 minutes, his subject "Disciplined Fidelity" was gracefully and eloquently handled and thoroughly discussed. The audience was highly entertained, delighted and instructed.

Rev. Laurie gave a short talk. He confined himself to no particular subject, but spoke of matters of general interest His remarks were appropriate to the occasion, and were delivered in his usual happy style. He gave "James" a little hit on the subject of David and Goliah.

The music was first class, well selected and finelly executed.

The young ladies of the society certainly know how to entertain their friends and visitors, each comer being greeted by bright eyes and fair hands in such manner as to assure him, that he was welcome.

The refreshments were "recherche" every body was pleasant, every body was pleased, and all went merry as a marriage bell until about 10 o'clock when it dawned upon the happy assemblage that "Tempus fugit" and an adjournment was in order The receipts of the evening were $21

We hope the young people may enjoy many similar ocasions and they will "Endeavor to promote health, morality, christianity and consequent happiness, in the future as in the past.

St. Peter's Telegram.

When Spurgeon died at Mentone his congregation was notified by a dispatch saying:

Our beloved pastor entered heaven this morning.

And this was posted on the door of the tabernacle, and published everywhere. Some days after, during a memorial service at the tabernacle, while the body was still in transit through France, the presiding clergyman was handed a foreign telegram in the pulpit. He opened it but somehow failed to read it aloud. It is related now that this dispatch, sent from some place in the Riviera, read:

Mr. Spurgeon not yet arrived. PETER.

Barn Destroyed by Fire.

Lock Haven Feb., 26th

The barn of Judge C. A. Mayer was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight last night. The origin of the fire is unknown. The fireman by their efficient services prevented the fire from communicating to the Judge's fine residnnc, although the north side of the house was badly scorched. The Judge's supply of ice for next summer's use was stored in the barn and a good portion of it was melted by the heat. There was plenty of water and a good pressure, and the firemen did their work well.

Entertainments.

The W. C. T. U. has succeeded in securing Miss Adeline Westcott to give one of her delightful entertainments at this place Wednesday evening, March 2. Charlotte M. Allen of New York, says:

"Miss Adelaide Westcott has been under my direction and the constant companion of my travels for the past two years, and I cannot speak too highly of her ability. She is exceedingly versatile, attractive and original. One possessing her talent is sure of success."

The programme will appear in to-morrow's issue THE NEWS.

WITH THE GRAND ARMY.

THE OLD SOLDIERS AND THEIR FRIENDS CAPTURE PITTSBURG.

General John P. Taylor, of Lewistown, Elected Department Commander. Names of the Lucky Individuals—The Statistical Report, Etc.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 22.—Proudly a thousand or more men, most of them wearing the blue and all of them the badge of the Grand Army of the Republic, marched from the Seventh Avenue hotel yesterday morning at 10 o'clock to the Grand Opera House. With a bright sun shing upon them, the Grand Army band playing a march, the veterans moved up Fifth avenue, halted before the decorated entrance to the opera house, passed in—thus was opened the 26th annual department encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic of Pennsylvania.

When all were in, the exercises commenced promptly. Upon the stage, which was decorated with flags, were the following, Colonel F. H. Collier, Department Commander Boyer, Assistant Adjutant General S. P. Town, Chaplain J. W. Sayers, J. V. D. C. Thomas, A. Morrison, Assistant Quartermaster General Abraham Levering, General Gobin, Past Department Commander Curtin, John P. Taylor, Major Joseph Denniston, Colonel Frank Patterson, Past Department Commander Tyson, Charles A. Suydam, Colonel Chili Hazzard, General Hazzard, General Palmer, Major E. A. Montooth, General Shattuck, and many others.

After an address of welcome by Judge and Comrade Collier on behalf of the G. A. R., of Allegheny county, and response by Gen. Gobin, the encampment went into secret session. The calling of the roll was dispensed with and General Palmer made an address. He stated that the sentiment in the South was that rebel flags should not be flourished and he was assured that never again in Georgia would a rebel flag be carried in a parade. A resolution endorsing "order No. 4" of Gen. Palmer was unanimously adopted. That order forbade any member of the Grand Army to march in a procession where a rebel flag was carried.

Department Commander George G. Boyer made his annual address. It shows that the quarterly returns of December 21, 1890 represented 597 posts and a membership of 42,820, while the semi-annual reports of December 31, 1891, shows 607 posts with 42,511 members, indicating a loss of 309 members during the year as compared with the loss of 793 the year previous. The total gain of membership from all sources was 5,094, and the tota losses 5,403. The loss from suspension alone numbered 3,974, the number still remaining on the suspended list being 3,391. The amount expended for charity by posts last year was $34,951.37. The balance of cash in the hands of the assistant quartermaster general on December 31 was $4,509.35. Commander Boyer praises the ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic Home at Hawkins' station and the Erie Home. There 356 pensioners are quartered. Concerning the Soldiers' Orphans schools at Chester Springs, Uniontown, Harford and Loysville, he says there are 709 children enrolled and by the close of the next vacation the number will be reduced to 600, a reduction of 900 children since the commission assumed charge in 1889. He also commends the Sons of Veterans' organization. The proposition to alter the method of electing national delegates from Pennsylvania was laid on the table without comment, and the encampment adjourned for dinner.

At the afternoon session the reports of Comrade John F. Mackie, senior vice department commander; Rev. J. A. Sayers, chaplain, were read.

The report of Assistant Adjutant General Samuel P. Town showed that during the year the following posts disbanded: Col. Bates post No. 83, Middleborough, Erie county; John M. Phipps post, No. 427, Clintonville, Venango county; Captain Simon Litzenberg post, No. 480, Clifton Heights, Delaware county, J. C. Markle post, No. 57, West Newton, Westmoreland county, and Daniel Leasure post, No. 302, Darlington, Beaver county.

The evening was principally devoted to camp fires, but many of the delegates attended the theatres.

The afternoon session was taken up by the election of officers which resulted as follows: Department Commander, General John P. Taylor, Lewistown, senior vice commander, W. O. Russell, Pittsburg; junior vice commander, J. K. Swoyer, Philadelphia; department chaplain, John W. Sayers, Reading; medical director, Dr. W. H. Edwards, Reading. Fifteen names were then placed in nomination for the election of five members of the council of administration. This election will be held to-morrow. Of this number the following four gentlemen are pretty sure winners: Levi Shingle, Philadelphia; W. J. Patterson, Pittsburg; J. B. Maxwell and A. A. Pancowit, Philadalphia. Delegates to the national encampment were then nominated and before the nominations closed their were over 300 names slated, out of this number there are to be forty-five elected.

THE LADIES OF THE G. A. R.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 24.—The ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic met this morning in the hall of the Union Veteran Legion. There are 400 delegates representing sixty-seven circles in all parts of the state, and the scene presented was a brilliant one. The hall had been handsomely decorated with flags and emblems, and was filled with delegates and alternates. Over 500 ladies were present when, at 10 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Duncan, the president, called the meeting to order. After a short address of welcome by the presiding officer the roll was called and it was found the present meeting was the best represented of any ever held. The morning session was devoted to the appointment of committees and routine business.

In the afternoon the first evidence of the divided meeting was when the nominations of officers was called for. Last year Mrs. Reed, of Reading, was nominated for president but was defeated by Mrs. Durand, the present president. The friends of Mrs. Reed claimed she should be unanimously nominated an elected this year, but this was objected to and the following were nominated for president: Mrs. Sallie E. Linhart, of Duquesne Heights Mrs, Reed, of Reading; Mrs. Leisening, of Allentown, and Mrs. Ella Jones, of Altoona The election takes place to-morrow and promises to be lively.

DRAWBACKS ALLOWED.

Over a Million Returned on Tin-plate in Fifteen Months.

WASHIDGTON, Feb. 23.—A statement was laid before the House to day from the Commissioner of Customs showing that $1811,061 drawback was allowed by the Government on tin cases etc., manufactured from imported tin-plate and exported from October 1, 1890, to December 11. 1891.

Another statement from the Commissioner shows that the amount of drawback allowed on imported salt used in curing meats exported from October 1, 1899, to December 31,1891, aggregated $92,201.

Included in a third statement was a table giving quantity and value of salt imported and withdrawn from warehouse for the purpose of curing fish, duty on which was remitted under the act o October 1, 1890. The quantity aggregated 115,995,600 pounds, valued at $202,856.

DIVIDENDS FOR BROKEN BANKS.

Creditors of Two Defunct Pennsylvania Institutions to Receive Partial Payments.

WASHIFGTON, Feb. 24.—The Comptroller of the Currency has declared dividends in favor of creditors of insolvent national banks as follows:—

A second dividend, 20 per cent., in the case of the Maverick National Bank, of Boston, making in all 60 per cent, on claims proven, amounting to $6,872,182; a first dividend, 25 per cent, in the case of the First National Bank, of Clearfield, Pa., on claim amounting to $112,758; a first dividend, per cent., in the case of the Corry National Bank, of Corry, Pa., on claims amounting to $518,069.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENT.

William R. Gilbert Named for a District Judgeship—Judge Buffington Confined.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The President to-day sent to the Senate the following nominations:—

William B. Gilbert, of Oregon, United States Circuit Judge for the Ninth Judicial Circuit.

Henry H. Smith, of Michigan, Assistant Register of the Treasury.

The Senate in executive session to-day confirmed the nomination of Joseph Buffington, to be United States District Judge for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

AGAINST THE MINER LAW.

Michigan Republicans Will Nominate Electors to Be Voted for at Large Instead of in Districts.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 24.—The Republican State Committee has decided to ignore the Miner electoral law in the choice of Presidental electors this year. The Miner law provides for the choice of electors by districts instead of on a State ticket as heretofore.

Their convention will choose delegates to be voted for at large, and it is hoped by this plan to make a test of the law's constitutionality.

Ten Dollars for Brice.

WASHIFGTON, Feb. 24.—Chairman Brice of the National Democratic Committee, has received his first contribution to the campaign fund of 1892. It came in the shape of a check for $10 from an enthusiatic Iowa Democrat, who sent with it a letter overflowing with Democratic zeal, and full of prediction of triumph of his party in the approaching contest.

Soldiers and Politicians.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Private Dalzell has issued a call for a convention of old soldiers to meet at Minneapolis the day prior to the National Republican Convention. He says the politicians have not treated the soldiers right. and that the veterans must make a platform and compel the politicians to stand on it.

"Hill and Success."

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 24.—The Louisville Post, Democratic, proclaims for Hill for the Presidental nomination. After calling attention to his splendid leadership and his ability to carry New York, it declares that Hill and success is far better than Cleveland and defeat.

Information has been received of the schoolship Saratoga at Basse Terre, St. Kitts, West Indies. All hands are well.

READY TO MARRY.

A Finnish Bishop Who Is Willing to Wed Miss Wanamaker.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 24—A man registering as Bishop H. Turenen, of Philadelphia, was at the St. James hotel today. According to his statements to various newspaper men he is not only willing but anxious to sacrifice himself on the matrimonial altar, and the family of the post master general is his latest aim. Turenen says his home is in Finland and that he is a bishop in the Lutheran church. He is of medium build, with dark complexion, light hair and mustache, and apparently about 35 years old. He was attired in a neat broad cloth suit, with Prince Albert coat. A striking article of his apparel was a pair of handsome diamond and sapphire buckles fastened to his low patent leather shoes. Another buckle set with the same gems adorned his right sleeve. Without anv persuasion he started off and related the following tale in broken English and with a decidedly foreign accent: "Yes, I am a native of Finland and a count. I have been in America eight years, during part of which time I attended an eastern college and later, before going to Philadelphia was the pastor of a Lutheran church in California. After being raised to the bishopric I went to Philadelphia. Your free country is the land of my adoption, and several years ago I took out citizenship papers in the state of Michigan. At present I am on my way to Greenville, Pa., where I will attend a college for the purpose of studying German and English to enable myself to better carry on the missionary work of the Finnish church in this country.

"I have received a medal from the prince of East India and am president of the Truth and Honor association and that of the Light association, both composed of the nobility in Finland; Germany and France. I think that my position and family would entitle me to marry into the best families of this country. I am perfectly willing to marry and promised my relatives and associates before laaving Finland that I would so do. Either the Harrison or Wanamaker families would be preferable and I have just sent this telegram to Miss Wanamaker in Philadelphia a few moments ago though I do not know her except by sight: Have received great sorrow. Had to leave Philadelphia but will return again. I also have written a letter to the postmaster general in regard to the matter, but I prefer not to divulge its contents. I am filled with much sorrow over an occurrence that befell me in San Francisco. A young society lady, Miss Florence Blaythe, I thought would make me a good wilfe, and although I had never met her, one day I offered her my hand. She sent no answer to my letter, but the German counsul visited me and severely reprimended me, even threatening me with arrest. Although I had done no harm, he made me apologize and I did feel sorry over the matter and tried to forget both the young lady and the cruel counsul. But life is full of unpleasantness."

THE ENGLISHMAN'S "DRAG."

As He Had Not Used It a Year He Must Pay an Import Duty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—An Englishman temporarily residing in this country, recently sent over for his "drag," and was somewhat surprised when asked to pay duty on it. He contended that it was exempt from duty as a "personal effect," and appealed the case to the Treasury Department.

Acting Secretary Spaulding has informed him that personal effects are entitled to free entry only when they have been used abroad by the owner for at least a year, and that as it appears that the "drag" in question had not been so used by him (the owner), but merely by his friends and servants, it was not regarded as entitled to to the privilege of free entry.

STATEHOOD FOR UTAH.

Delegations Demand That or Nothing from This Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The delegations which have been recently urging and opposing before the State and House Committees on Territories the bill for statehood and for local government for Utah concluded their arguments this morning before the Senate Committee.

Judge C. W. Bennett, chairman of the Territorial Republican Committee, opposed the bill for local government and favored the admission of the Territory as a State, on the ground that the people wanted statehood or nothing.

John Henry Smith, of Salt Lake, also favored the statehood measure.

Doings of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—When Congress convened to-day there was scarcely a quorum in either branch. The House recognized the futility of attempting any important work, and after having been in session about fifteen minutes adjourned until to-morrow.

In that time a few reports were made from the committee and Mr. Brown of Indiana, gave notice that he would call up the contested election of Craig vs. Stewart on Thursday. The Democrats hope to dispose of this case in one day, but the indications are that more time will be required.

The Issue of Silver Dollars.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints and Treasury offices during the week ending February 20, 1892, was $199,319 sue for the corresponding period of last year aggregated $328,869. The shipment of fractional silver coin from the 1st to the 20th inst. amounted to $489,299.

A Rihtous Demonstration By German Working men.

Special to the NEWS

Berlin Feb 25 1891.

The unemployed workmen of this city to the number of 3,000 assembled this afternoon on the public square and passed resolutions denouncing the employers and the entire system of government. News of the gathering spread rapidly, and the workmen were reinforced by large numbers of other discontented artisans, and the socialistic agitators, taking advantage of the occasion persuaded the crowd to march to the Emperor's Castle. As they marched the numbers swelled, and thousands followed on the sidewalks cheering the marchers. The crowd stopped all business and prevented the police from interfering with the workmen and they nearly reached the Castle gate. The Guards were ordered under arms and with loaded rifles, they and the entire body of police charged upon the crowd shooting and sweeping them down, the police clubbing the unarmed workmen without mercy, severely injuring hundreds and capturing 80 prisoners. The workingmen were panic stricken and fled in every direction. The guards are now guarding the castle and the police patroling the streets. A very uneasy feeling prevails throughout the city and trouble is feared in other parts of the empire.

Ber in Rioters.

Special to DAILY NEWS.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—At midni ht last night the streets were comparatively quiet. Some disturbances in two streets about ten o'clock. but the police succeeded in quelling them he city socialists and workingmen are not considered the chief offenders. Large numbers of rural workmen flocked into the capital seekin employment. Not finding anything to do, they became desperate and started the row, and were really the prime mover in the riotous proceeding.

YELLOW JACK.

Special to the News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25, 1892.

The Steamship Advance from Rio Janairo, arrived to-day, and is in quarantine. Several of her passengers and a number of the crew died during the voyage with yellow fever, and many more are now sick with the dread disease. Every possible precaution will be taken to prevent its spread. No communication between ship and shore is allowed.

Persons having friends on board besiege the health officers to permit them to see their relatives, but all are denied.

Bulgarian Agent Stabbed at Constantinople.

Special to the DAILY NEWS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 25, 1892.

Dr. Vulcovitch agent representing Bulgaria as he was going to his hotel last evening was severely stabbed by an assassin who suddenly sprang upon him with a dirk or stiletto.

His assailent was not recognized by the Doctor, and so far has eluded capture. The reaso for the assult is unknown. The wound is severe but probably not fatal as the Doctor Seems to be recovering.

Jndge Gilbert's Career.

ACME BLACKING is cheaper at 20 cents a bottle than any other Dressing at 5 cents.

A LITTLE GOES A LONG WAYS

Because shoes once blackened with it can be kept clean by washing them with water. People in moderate circumstances find it profitable to buy it at 20c. a bottle, because what they spend for Blacking they save in shoe leather.

It is the cheapest blacking considering its quality, and yet we want to sell it cheaper if it can be done. We will pay for a recipe that will enable us to make WOLFF'S ACME BLACKING at such a price that a retailer can profitably sell it at 10c. a bottle. This offer is open until Jan. 1st, 1893.

$10,000 Reward

The plague of breaking lamp-chimneys is abroad in the land.

There are two sorts of chimneys; brittle and tough. Ninety-nine in a hundred are brittle. The worst are imported from Germany. The best are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" & "Pearl-glass."

Two sorts as to workmanship; fine and coarse. The fine are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass." The coarse are rough and out of proportion; misfits and misshapen; they do not make a good draft; they smoke.

Two sorts as to glass; transparent and gray. "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass" are clear, fine and tough—not tough against accident—tough against heat.

Call for "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" chimneys.

Local Department.

—There be an abundance of snow, but there is very poor sleighing.

Editor Furey, of the Lock Haven Democrat, is on the mend, we are glad to say.

—The annual conference of the M. E. church will convene at York, Pa., next week.

—Southern vegetables are already coming into our northern markets, but at oh, what a price!

—On Monday John P. Harris, Jr., being twenty years of age, celebrated his fifth birthday.

—There wase a stranger arrived at the home of Mr. James Cain Sunday morning. It is a boy.

—A fair sized audience listened to Adelaide Wescott in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Wednesday evening.

—This little touch of winter will be hailed with delight alike by the coal dealer, the plumber and the liveryman.

—It now seems as if the groundhog wasn't very deep in it as a weather prophet, if one can judge from the present state of weather.

—The telephone and telegraph companies have now got their lines all in working order and one can "hello" as well as in days before the storm.

—There was no school on Tuesday afternoon, the same having been closed to allow all the children to attend the horse show in the opera house.

—The Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply company are sending out new cards. The new ones are arranged more conveniently than the old.

—We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Eminhizer, wife of Rev. F. W. Eminhizer, is seriously ill at her home in Coleville. We trust she may soon recover.

—Clinton county democrats met on Saturday and elected delegates to the state convention passing a resolution instructing for Cleveland for President.

—The local freight east over Bald Eagle Valley on Monday was wrecked at Julian and delayed about six hours. So far as could be learned nobody was injured.

—There was an alarm of fire sounded on monday evening which proved to be a false one. It was caused, it is said, by the crossing of the telegraph and electric light wires

—The social hop given by the young gentlemen of Bellefonte on Tuesday evening was well attended. A number of persons were present from Tyrone, Lock Haven and other places.

—The uptown paper on Wednesday informed its readers that hereafter it would not be issued until 7 o'clock in the evening. This, however, will make it only about fifteen minutes later than usual.

—Mrs. Bessie Barnard, wife of Professor Barnard, of State College, died on Sunday night at 12 o'clock. The funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock, interment to be made at the Slab Cabin Cemetery.

—Moving day this year, April first, come on Friday. This being the fact what will all those superstitious people do who are afraid to do anything on that day because of the fatality of unluckiness that seems connected therewith.

—The residence of Mr. Charles Moon was burglarized a few nights ago. The burglars succeeded in carrying off all Mr. Moon's clothing except what he had on. They came back the other evening while he was asleep and took the remainder of his clothes, also some jewelry belonging to Mrs. Moon.

—It now looks as if Bellefonte would be strictly in it the coming season. Last week several capitalists from a distance were in Bellefonte looking up a good location for an iron plant and from what can be learned on the subject, they were favorably impressed with Bellofonte and the surrounding community.

—Associate Judge Riley came to Bellefonte this morning to assist in hearing the applications for license, but owing to the deep snow and the blockaded condition f the railroads, failed to get here to take in the whole of the court. Nevertheless, we suppose, when His Honor did get here he made up for the little time he was absent.

—The snow storm of Monday night played such mischief with the telephone wires that it was impossible to get them all righted on Tuesday, notwithstanding the fact that the company had a large force of men at work. The telegraphic communication was also cut off and for this reason the News failed in its usual amount of special dispatches.

—The addition of the steel furnishings in the vaults in the court house and in the commissioner's office has so changed the first story of the temple of justice as to make it look like a new building. And, after an inspection of the same, it is not to be supposed that there is one taxpayer in Centre county who will have one word of fault to find with the expense incurred.

MARCH FORECAST.

Hicks Predicts Some Very Distressing Weather for the Coming Month.

Mercury is at the centre of its disturbing period on the 2d. Rectionary storms are also due from that date to the 5th. The moon's first quarter being on the 6th, and the electri tension-began greatly increased by our approaching vernal equinox, it will be prudent to anticipate storms and hard, trying weather from about the 2d to 5th. The period will come in with winds shifting to southerly; rain will appear first, turning to heavy sleet; and finally to snow in Northern and Central states. Don't forget that Mercury is our sleet god, that his power begins five days before, and reaches five or six days beyond the 2d, and expect his heavy sleet coat of mail to enwrap shrubbry, and play diabolical pranks with the wires in many parts of the land. A severe dash of arctic breath will follow. See if the mercury dosen't touch a low point, generally, but especially, of course, to the north, between the 2d and 7th.

About the 11th of March is always a critical time. The vernal exninox is about the crisis of its electrical equitement within three or four days of this date. A regular storm period is central on the 8th, its days of greatest violence being from that date to the 11th. These facts, added to the full moon on the morning of the 13th, indicate atmospheric and electrical disturbances of marked violence. By this we do not mean anything out of the ordinary course of nature, or that the earth and elements are to go to pieces; but we do mean to say that meteorological danger is probably from the 8th to 13th, especially along coasts and on the seas. Storms of general snow and rain will result at the same time and a cold wave of great intensity will spread eastward and southward from about the 10th to 13. The 14th and 15th are dates upon and touching which there will be a sudden change to very warm, attended by electrical storms, and followed by change of wind and sharp freezing up to about the 18th.

A regular storm period is central on the 20th, being within forty-eight hours of the sun's central bearing on our equator. The moon is on the equator also, on the 21st. The equinox of Mars on April 12th, will also bring its full disturbing power into play by this time, so that every warning given for the period 8th to 13th. will apply with added force to the period 18th to 23d inclusive. Great gales on sea and land must result upon and about these dates. Those who are looking for an open passage into warmer summer weather, will find their hopes, and perhaps other possessions blighted by frost between the 22d and 26th. Plan for the care of your stock and the protection of early vegetation. Another sudden change from cold to very warm will occur 26th, to 28th, with rain southward, turning to snow in the far west and north. The final dash of cold for the month will follow up to the 30th. March will go out with rising temperature and the appearance of storms in the west which will run into the opening days of April.

PROF. D. M. BRISTOL'S EQUINE WONDERS.

The following is from the Cincinnati Enquirer relative to Prof. Bristol's remarkable horses which will exhibit in the opera house two nights commencing this evening:

The intelligence displayed by Prof. Bristol's troupe of educated horses which opened a week's engagement at Hauck's yesterday afternoon, is absolutely marvelous. One cannot help exclaiming: "Where does instinct end and reason begin?" There are thirty animals in the troupe, and to enumerate thier many tricks without even explaining them, would require a column. The clown mule Denver is a show in himself He s a wonderfully bright, little creature, and does everything so comical that a stone image would laugh. Sultan is another equine star who wins thundering applause with almost every action. His ability to tell one color from another is astonishing but the most puzzling of all was the mystery of how he could add, subtract, multiply and divide with the facility far superior to that of a small boy, and many grown persons. This exhibition must be seen to be fully appreciated. The pony, Tony, performs a most wonderful leap act and and Comanche does a feat of balancing and calculation that students of humanity would declare required reasoning. When the little mule, Dynamite, walked the tight rope, the astonishment and excitement of the audience reached the highest pitch. Then came the great military drill. The horses marched in single and double file countermarched, "fell in," wheeled right and left, nd went through many other evolutions that would have been difficult for trained soldiers. The comical mule trade concluded the entertainment. The exhibition ought to draw immensely. Matinee to-morrow afternoon.

The Ladies' Home Journal.

The March number of The Ladies' Home Journal preserves most admirably the excellence which this popular magazine has accustomed its 700,000 readers to expect; the place of honor is given to the interesting and beautifully illustrated article by Ada Chester Bond entitled "A Royal Recluse," which deals with the life of seclusion led by the Ex-Empress Eugene, Farnborough, England. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher continues her interesting reminiscinces of her famous husband, and Miss Winnie Davis, daughter of Jefferson Davis contributes her concluding paper on "The American Girl Who Studies Abroad." Miss Davis writes entertainingly on a subject of which she has had practical and personal knowledge, and makes a strong plea for American training for American girls. Mrs. Frank Leslie and Henri Jenius Browne answer with decided nagatives the questioned accusation "Are Our Girls Too Independent?" and "Are Women Inconstant?" Frederick Dolman gives an interesting sketch, illustrated with portraits, of Mrs. Charles H. Spurgeon, the widow of the famous London preacher, and Frances E. Smith an equally delightful one of Mrs. Gabriella Greely Clendenin. Altogether, the March number is of unusual excellence, and worth many times its modest price of ten cents. Published at one dollar per year by the Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia.

No Licenses Granted Yet.

It might be said that just now there are a few men in Centre county who are on pins and needles, as it were, as to their fate at the hands of the Honorable Judges in the question of license or no license. All of the thirty-two applicants have been given a hearing with the exception of one man who thus far has been unable to be in court. Of the twenty houses in Centre county that have been licensed during the past year it is safe to say that all will again be licensed, as there was no remonstrance against any one of them. Of the twelve new applications it might be said that there is every reason to believe some will be granted, just how many is hard to say, but it now looks as if the number might be about five. Of course some will be refused. It was the in ention of the court to dispose of them this morning, but owing to circumstances which required Judge Furst's personal attention, the morning session of court was a brief one, and it now looks as if the names of those who drew the prizes would not be made public until to-morrow morning.

Unionville Items.

There are 16 inches of snow on the ground March 1st and will be a fine protection for the grass and grain against the cold winds of March.

Mrs. N. J. Hurley of this place died a few days ago, aged 78 years.

Owen Uuderwood, a prominent farmer near town, has been confined to the house a few days with a bad cold.

Mrs. Dr. Russel has returned from Adams County, Pa., where she was called a few days ago by the illness of her mother and sister.

G. W. Rumbarger has made a sale and is moving his family to Phillipsburg where he is in business.

D. W. Allen will move from here to a farm o Marsh Creek some time this month.

The members of the Evangelical Church have held a festiva and paid up their minister.

A, J. Griest will gather in his herds and chattles from different parts of the township and have a sale on Saturday next.

P. J. McDonnell and his men have abundance of work on the rail oad now shoveling snow.

Funeral of Mary Musser.

On Sunday, at 2 o'clock, the funeral of little Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Musser, the little heroine, took place from the Methodist church, and was one of the largest that has occurred in Bellefonte for years. This was so because everybody was acquainted with the unusual sadness of the circumstances connected therewith. Rev. Ed Everett Hoshour, of the Lutheran church, preached the funeral sermon, and a more beautiful, pathetic and touching sermon has not been heard at any funeral in Bellefonte for some time. Rev. W. A. Houck, also spoke feelingly. After the services at the church the cortege proceeded to the Union cemetery, where all that was mortal of the girl who had given her life for others was deposited in mother earth, but her spirit had gone to join the vast throng of the redeemed in that land where suffering and sorrow are unknown, and where parting from loved ones never comes.

Spring Mills Items.

Dr. Harter, of Millheim, was seen on our streets last Thursday.

Mr. John Mayes of Lemont, who has been attending the Academy here departed for his home last Friday.

Charles Allison, is down with the grip.

C. C. Cummings, after spending several weeks with his family here, left last week for Philadelphia where he expects to spend several months.

Mrs. Cummingham of Ohio, is visiting friends here.

Miss Fell of Aaronsburg spent several days, last week with her sister at this place.

"Grimes' Cellar Door."

The latest musical burlesque, has proven a great success from the very first production, and the newspapers in general are loud in their praise of the entire performance. Jas. B. Mackie, the accomplished young comedian, has made th biggest hit of his life as "Billy Grimes," who owns the "Cellar Door" This great attraction will be seen in Bellefonte at the Garman Opera House and notwithstanding the large expense attached to this engagement prices will remain as usual.

—Already the seaside resorts are advertising their respective attractions for the coming summer and the buds of society are selecting suitable feathers to complete their plumage for the stated period.

REGULATIONS FOR LENT.

Archbishop Corrigan's Rules for the Coming Fast.

Lent, the usual season for fasting, begins to-morrow. Recently the Pope, owing to the ravages of the grip, issued a rescript dispensing Catholics from the usual fast and abstinence of Lent. The Pope gave power to Archbishops and Bishops to absolve the people of their charges from fasting and abstinence as long as, in their judgment, the state of public health required this indulgence. A few of the bishops of this country have given their people the benefit of the Papal rescript, and in their dioceses there will be neither fasting nor abstinence during Lent. Archbishop Corrigan has not deemed it necessary to make use of the Papal rescript in his archdiocese. The regulations include the following:

First—The use of flesh meat, as also of eggs and white meats is permitted at every meal on the Sundays of Lent, and at the principal meal on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with the exception of Ember Saturday and Holy Saturday.

Second—The use of white meats is allowed every day in Lent in the evening collation, and also at the principal meal on the days on which the use of flesh meat is forbidden.

Third—A small piece of bread with a cup of coffee, tea or chocolate, can be taken in the morning.

Fourth—Where it is not convenient to take the principal meal at noon. it is lawful to invert the order, and take a collation in the morning and dinner in the evening.

Fifth—Dripping and lard may be used in the preparation of the kinds of food which are permitted.

Sixth—On Sundays there is neither fast nor abstinence, but fish cannot be used with flesh meat at the same meal during Lent.

Seventh—Those who are exempt from the precept of fasting can partake of flesh meat at every meal during the day when, by special indulgence, flesh is permitted at the principal meal.

Bristol's Equescurriculum.

Contrary to expectations and notwithstanding the very bad night Garman's opera house was well filled on Monday evening by an audience all anxious to see Mr. Bristol's trained troupe of horses, and at the conclusion of the performance there was not one person went home disappointed. In addition to his almost human horses Mr. Bristol carries a very fine orchestra and the audience were thus delighted with a pleasing overture prior to the rise of the curtain.

When the curtain went up the scene on the stage was one of beauty and animation. The stage was deeply covered with sawdust and all cleared of scenery. In the open space thus made gamboled sixteen of the handsomest horses ever seen in Bellefonte. Mr. Bristol soon made his appearance and prefaced the performance by a few remarks on the sagacity and intelligence of the horse. Then commenced performance which was simply wonderful. Horses taught to not only rform tricks but to understand, with almost human perception every, word uttered by their master. This was proven by the fact that everything they were told to do would be done correctly and promptly, without any assistance whatever. And Sultan, in his solving of arithmetical problems' was together a wonder and a majestery. But the most comic of all the horse performers was the clown mule Denver Always on hand, comic as a clown, with the proper contrary attributes of the mule, he was almost a show in himself. On the whole we pronounce Mr. Bristol s Equescurriculum an extraordinarily fine exhibition and one that must be seen to be appreciated. See it to-night.

A Good Fall of "The Beautiful."

Bellefonte and surrounding community has a larger covering of snow to-day than it had at any time during this winter season. It snowed most of Monday and all of Monday night, and at this writing is still snowing. Altogether there must have fully twenty four inches of snow come down as it now measures about eighteen inches, not counting what melted. If the snow lays a few days there will undoubtedly be some good sleighing—the very best of the season. So don't fail to have your sleighs and bells ready.

Wires All Down.

The storm of Monday night played sad havoc with the telegraph and telephone wires. This morning it was an impossibility to get or send a message anywhere either by telephone or telegraph, as the wires are all down. There was no telegraphic communication along the railroads and all those waiting on trains just had to wait as it was impossible to find out anything regarding them. But, by the time this issue of The News is read everything will probably be in order again.

Old Records.

In overhauling the papers in the Recorder's office last week Recorder Morrison came across old deeds and transfers dating back a hundred years. In some instances, these deeds were never recorded and hence were entirely worthless. This was so because the parties who brought the same in failed to pay the necessary fee which must be paid before the paper is recorded and the deed had been laid aside to await the forth-coming of the necessary wherewithal. As that same was never forthcoming the papers became worthless. Now the question is just this there are a number of persons in Centre county who are doubtless owners of land on which they cannot show a clear title. Whether or not this might make any difference, legally, would be a question to decided by the courts but it certainly would be a wise move for property owners to look up the title to their land.

COMING AND GOING

Mr. John Uzzzle, of Snow Shoe, was in Bellefonte to-day.

Miss Lulu Hensel, the artist, is contemplating a trip to Europe.

Lawrence L. Brown, of Philadelphia, was a visitor in Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Miss Lois Hook, an accomplished young lady of Altoona, spent Tuesday in Bellefonte.

Miss Rene McFarlane, of Altoona, is visiting her friend Miss Rebe Garman on High street.

Miss Stella Whitaker left for Snow Shoe this morning where she will visit friends and relatives.

Ex-Deputy Sheriff, R. K. Wilson, of Philipsburg, was in Bellefonte on business yesterday and to-day.

Mr. L. A. Hayes and wife of Missouri, are visiting his brother George and sister Blanche on High street.

B. Weber, has just returned from a trip to Virginia where he has been looking after his interests in a stone quarry at Stony Ledger.

Mr. Joseph Dillen, the junior editor of this paper, departed on Tuesday evening for a brief trip to Philadelphia. He will return to-morrow.

Gen. D. H. Hastings, presiden of the Sterling Coal Company, near Houtzdale, wrote on Friday to the Russian Relief Committee, of Philadelphia, offering to contribute coal sufficient to supply the relief steamer Indiana on her voyage to Russia and return. It would have cost $2,500 to have purchased the coal.

Sparkling and Clear.

"Grimes' Cellar Door," a bright, musical burlesque, by Thomas Addison, Esq., which has met with such success, and which is strongly praised by the newspapers, has been secured by Manager Al. S. Garman for one jolly night at Garman's Opera House, next Friday evening, March 4, and a large audience will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity and see this really excellent attraction. Jas. B. Mackie is the star of the organization and has made an emphatic hit as "Billy Grimes," who owns the Cellar Door. Mackie is well remembered for his exceptionally fine work as "Grimesy, Me Boy," in "A Bunch of Keys." Other prominent characters in this new burlesque are "Josiah Grimes," who wants to own the Cellar Door, and Pandora (Miss Louise Sanford) Goddess of Mischief.

—An exchange says that the Pittsburg Times has concluded to open a school to introduce the new system of voting under the Baker law in this State. A room will be equipped with a booth constructed upon the plan officially adopted by the state authorities and all the approaches, boxes and accessories contemplated by the new law. An election board will be in attendance daily to conduct the election and instruct voters in the operation of the system. This is not a bad idea, and it would hardly be out of place to pattern after it all over the State.

—Next Friday evening March 4th Jas. B. Mackie will be seen for the first time here as "Billy Grimes," who owns the Cellar Door in Thos. Addison's bright musical burlesque, "Grimes, Cellar Door." This attraction has been enthusiastically received by very large audiences wherever presented and it is altogether likely that The Garman Opera House will prove no exception to this rule. The company carries almost a car load of special scenery, and a fine performance is a matter of fact.

A Serious Loss.

Monte Ward, the well known base ballist, met with a serious loss in the Smith, Oray & Co., fire in Brooklyn, on Sunday. He had his household furniture stored in the building, besides his law library, and what he thinks more of than all a scrap book containing records and clippings of every game of ball he ever played. Everything was lost. He had no insurance.

—Dr. Talmage's tabernacle is to be sold to satisfy a mechanic's lien of $52,213.59, obtained by C. W. Willis. The building cost $400,000 and Willis was the contractor. It was thought that money would be raised to pay it, but the trustees of the church failed to get it, and the tabernacle will have to be disposed of. Instead of building better than he knew he builded better than he can pay.

ATLANTIC CITY NEWS.

Items Readable, Interesting and Important.

Special Correspondence.

There is a great many strangers in Atlantic City this month and the hotels and Cottages are all open for the season.

A severe wind storm blew down a four-story building and three cottages Tuesday night. No lives lost but damage to property was heavy.

All the families who moved from Bellefonte to Atlantic City are getting along all right and, so far, like the place.

Lawrence Wian and family will soon come to this place to live, it is said.

A fire last Sunday night destroyed a photograph gallery and several rows of bath houses besides several hundred feet of board walk. All the property was well insured.

Several large new hotels are being erected this spring to be ready when the season opens.

The Waite Comedy company closed a week's successful engagement in the opera house here on Saturday evening.

Mr. Cal Lose and wife, old Bellefonters, are both well and enjoying themselves.

Mr. H. H. Benner desires to say to his Centre County friends who contemplate visiting Atlantic City that he can serve them with board and lodging at reasonable rates at No. 8. South N. Y. Avenue. Write in advance for rooms.

The colony of Bellefonte people now living in Atlantic City is composed of the following: Mr. A. Valentine and family, C. S. Lose and family, H. C. Williams and wife, H. C. Baney and wife, Charles Pile and wife, H. H. Benner and family, Col. Pile and family, Charles McCafferty and wife, Mrs. Kate Baney and her two sons, and Mr. Samuel Walkey and family.

At 8 o'clock every evening the eight horses of the United States fire company drill. They are witnessed by large crowds at every appearance.

Meeting of board of directors to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

We wish to thank the lady who so kindly gave the picture yesterday also the one who gave the very pretty curio case.

—We all enjoy a good hearty laugh mixed with bright, catchy music, and such will be at Garman's Opera house Friday, March 4th, when Jas. B. Mackie's new musical burlesque, "Grimes' Cellar Door," will be seen here for the first time. Here is a bright, gay entertainment chock full of brilliant musical numbers and clean, wholesome fun. "Mackie's Salvation Army," "The Triplet's," Mackie's topical song, "All Sorts," Miss Louie Sanford's new specialty and the great Grimes Cellar Goor quartette, are strong features that never fail to score hits and are always encored to the echo.

—Jas, B. Mackie, in the new musical burlesque, "Grimes' Cellar Door," will be the attraction at Garman Opera House Friday, March 4, for one jolly night. A large audience will no doubt enjoy the catchy music and novel features. Fun, fast and furious, is king from start to finish. Mackie's supporting company is a large and thoroughly good one, and includes Miss Louie Sanford. the charming soubrette, and the "Grimes' Cellar Door" quartette, who are said to be unexcelled in their superb specialty.

Whiskey by the Barrel.

In the hearing of license applications on Tuesday evidence was offered which showed that whiskey by the jugsfull and barrels is received daily at the Clarence station on the Beech Creek railroad. For one month it was proven the amount received there would foot up a total of about one hundred jugs and from two to five barrels, while beer was received by the wagon load. Evidently this would be a good locality for some temperance club to go to work.
